U-LINER CAUGHT IN TRAP?

German Maritime Papers Now Fear Disaster to Bremen; Undersea Craft Looked for Here

By International News Service.

Copenhagen, Aug. 15.—German maritime papers have begun to express fears that the merchant submarine Bremen has been lost by being caught in a steel net. They predict that no more merchant submarines will be sent to the United States.

Ever since the Bremen was thought to be approaching American waters, there has been unremitting watch kept by press, public and official observers for the first sign of the second U-liner.

The safe trip to United States shores of the first merchant submarine, the Deutschland, caused most optimistic prophecies concerning the Bremen. The public was prepared for the appearance of the second U-liner almost any time. Boston was said to be the Bremen's destination. Port officials here made arrangements for receiving and boarding the Bremen and had their course of action all mapped out.

The continued delay increased the tension. The sight of occasional submarines of the United States navy spread fast-traveling reports that the Bremen was coming into Boston harbor.

Close watch has likewise been kept all along the Atlantic seaboard, or at least along the United States part of it, for every large port had its expectations of being picked by the Bremen.

The fears expressed by German maritime papers, according to today's dispatch from Copenhagen, that the Bremen has been trapped in a steel net, is the most definite admission so far from German sources that the Bremen may have been caught.

Never Favored Wide Open City, Says Governor

I have never favored in the slightest degree a "wide-open" Boston, and I have never said or done anything which I intended should be susceptible of such a construction, even under the most exquisite torture.

I believe and I said in effect that the Excise Board should exercise all the discretionary power it has in the interest of temperance and morality.

If the law is not giving a sufficient power, I will recommend new laws extending such power to it.—From statement by Governor McCall.

GOVERNOR ANSWERS CRITICS

Defends License Board and Is for New Law if Needed; Resents Talk of "Wide Open" City

Governor McCall today made public answer to the charges in the Boston liquor scandal.

He declared that he not only had never favored a "wide-open" Boston, but he believes that the Boston Licensing Board should exercise all the discretionary power at its command "in the interest of temperance and morality."

"If the law does not exist giving it sufficient power, I will recommend new laws extending such power to it," Governor McCall declared.

He asked that Chairman Fletcher Ranney and William M. Prest, his two appointees to the Licensing Board, be judged by their deeds rather than by adverse predictions of what they may do in administering the license affairs of Boston.

FEAR WIDE-OPEN CITY.

Governor McCall's reply was intended to answer the adverse criticism that has been showered upon him by the Massachusetts Anti-Saloon League and other agencies who said they feared the danger of a wide-open city.

They charged that Charles S. Gow and Robert A. Woods had been forced off the Licensing Board because of the regulations they, as commissioners, had imposed upon the liquor traffic.

Superintendent Arthur J. Davis of the Anti-Saloon League had charged that Governor McCall, by his earlier public sentiment, intimated his belief that the discretionary power should be removed and the board should be left to exercise only the routine powers definitely vested in it by statute.

"Boston will be wide open again and vice and immorality will again be rampant," Mr. Davis had charged.

Governor McCall's answer to the charges is as follows:

HOLD FIVE GIRLS AS PIRATES

Two Sailors and Two Youths Also Accused of Cruising in Stolen Motorboats—Heavy Damage

Five Greater Boston girls, two sailors and two West End youths were held in East Boston Court for the Grand Jury, today, in $1,000 bonds apiece as motor boat pirates.

The charges were technically phrased as breaking and entering in the night time and stealing four motor boats. The nine girls and youths held were:

Nellie Sullivan, eighteen, of Austin street, Charlestown; Margaret Mackay, eighteen, of Neal street, Ashmont; Albert Levine, eighteen, of Revere street; John Groom, nineteen, of U. S. S. Virginia; Peter Salvagne, twenty, of Hanover street; Alice Labrie, seventeen, of Hulbank street, Richard Shaw, twenty-two, of the N. S. S. Sampson; Ethyle R. Smith, twenty-four, of Bowdoin street, and Flora Morton, seventeen, of Corey street, Charlestown.

TELL OF CRUISE.

The police allege that they first took the motorboat Gertrude C., owned by Henry Hoppy of Boston, from its mooring at Governor's Island, and cruised around in this boat until the supply of gasoline became exhausted. Then they broke into all the lockers in the boat, the police say, and, upon finding no more gasoline, abandoned the Gertrude after they had taken the motorboat Mildred C., owned by Walter F. Conner of Roxbury. They used this boat in the same way and then took, it is alleged, the motorboat Almanac, owned by George Garside of Revere. Finally they took, the police say, the motorboat Nymphia, owned by Milledge G. Crouse of Revere.

SAY DAMAGE IS $1,000.

For four days the four motor boats were used and $1,000 damage was done. Finally they were chased by the harbor police and cornered near the Simpson Dry Dock in East Boston.

Mary Kennihin, eighteen, of Cording avenue, Charlestown Olive Brizzard, eighteen, of Monroe street, East Boston, and Horace F. Phillips, twenty-one, of the U. S. S. Sampson were discharged.

HEARING IN THE SOKOL CASE

Supt. Crowley of Police Acts; Absence of O'Meara; Promises to Get Facts in West End Arrest

Superintendent of Police Michael H. Crowley today notified Attorney William R. Scharton that the manhandling of David Sokol of the West End by Patrolmen Elam W. Morgan and Owen J. Donnelly would be investigated.

Scharton had addressed to Police Commissioner O'Meara a letter demanding an investigation. He today received the following reply from Superintendent Crowley:

As Mr. Stephen O'Meara, Police Commissioner of the city of Boston, will be absent from the city for at least a few weeks, I beg to acknowledge receipt of your letter to him dated August 14.

In answer to the same, I will say that the matter concerning which you write will be investigated.

Respectfully yours,
MICHAEL J. CROWLEY.

Scharton's letter to O'Meara, the reply, and the fact that Dr. Leo T. McCready of Peter Parley road, Jamaica Plain, had been engaged to make an examination of Patrolman Donnelly to determine the extent of the injuries Sokol inflicted on him in resisting the assault by the police, furnished the developments in the case today.

MANY READY TO TESTIFY.

Commissioner O'Meara left town after referring the matter to Superintendent Crowley.

Scharton appealed to O'Meara after his efforts to secure a warrant for the arrest of the two men yesterday resulted in a postponement of the case.

Attorney Scharton has received several letters from West End residents who offer their testimony in substantiation of the charges of "unusual brutality" which Sokol is alleged to have received. These people tell of outrages by the police of the Jay

The case against Allison in the upper court today was postponed for a hearing later.

Today's Action Upon Railroad Tie-Up Menace

The situation today between the railroad managers and the brotherhood representatives may be thus summarized:

The managers conferred at the White House early today with President Wilson. It is understood they agreed to recognize the need of a shorter work day—eight or nine hours; if this was granted the men, the managers insisted upon a neutral commission to decide how it should be put into effect.

At this point the conference ended. The brotherhood representatives were communicated with, and promised to meet President Wilson at three o'clock today.

Force Canadians to Take British Flag Off Auto

A party of Canadian automobile tourists were taught a lesson in American neutrality today in Lynn when Patrolman William K. Wallace made them remove a small silk British flag which they had fastened to the radiator of their car.

Patrolman Wallace saw the car standing in front of a hotel on Exchange street. He waited beside the car, and when the party came out of the hotel and he informed them they would have to remove the British flag or place an American flag beside it.

Miss M. B. Moody of Terrebonne, Canada, one of the occupants of the car, stamped her foot and protested.

Finally Mrs. W. C. Corvensen, another one of the party, removed the flag. The tourists left Lynn for Boston.

OLDEST WOMAN IN NEW ENGLAND DEAD

Mrs. Julia Boudrot, believed to be the oldest woman in New England, died today at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Cassie Craven of No. 100 Willow street, Waltham, at the age of 110. Mrs. Boudrot was born in West Arichat, N. S., in October, 1806, and for the past thirty years had lived in Waltham.

Mrs. Boudrot retained all of her faculties to the last, and outlived six of her seven children. Only a month ago she was seen wheeling a wheelbarrow in her garden.

MANAGERS WANT 'NEUTRAL BOARD'

By International News Service.

Washington, Aug. 15.—Further progress in the effort to reconcile the differences between the railroads of the country and their union employes was made by President Wilson today.

The railroad managers are understood to have pledged themselves to President Wilson to yield in part by granting an eight or a nine-hour day, providing a neutral board is appointed to decide how the new working time shall be put into force.

For one hour and forty minutes the President and the committee of the railway managers today discussed the demand of the brotherhoods that they be granted an eight-hour day.

The railway managers, through their spokesman, Elisha Lee, cited figures which they declared would make it impossible to grant the eight-hour work day on the terms demanded by the men.

TERMS SUGGESTED.

They offered as a counter proposition, however, to recognize the essential nature of a shorter working day—some suggested eight hours and some nine hours—but insisted that, if it was to be granted, a neutral commission should be named to lay down the law as to how it must be made effective.

Finally the railway managers left their counter proposal in the hands of the President for him to discuss with the Brotherhood representatives. It was decided that they would go to the White House at 3 o'clock this afternoon to consider the matter, meanwhile the situation continuing practically unchanged.

Secretary to the President Tumulty,

RAILROAD CRISIS HOLDS UP TROOPS

Washington, Aug. 15—Announcement was made by the War Department today that until the threatened railroad strike is definitely averted there will be no more movements of troops to the border. It was stated that the order naming militia units mobilized at State camps be started for the border would be rescinded. Those troops will remain where they are for the present.

The press bureau of the War Department gave out the following announcement:

"In compliance with recommendations of General Funston contained in the following telegram, all troop movements toward the border have been suspended until further orders.

"In view of possibility of a general railroad strike, I desire to call the attention of the War Department to difficulties that will follow in maintaining food supply not only of troops in this department, but of the civil population as well.

"These border States produce but little foodstuffs except cattle. In view of the foregoing, I recommend that National Guard organizations which are about to start for border stations be retained in their mobilizing camps until such time as the question of a general strike shall have been decided."

following the conference, made the following statement:

SITUATION ACUTE.

"The President spent an hour and a half this morning with representatives of the railway managers. After the conference he said that it was impossible as yet to report on the result; all that he could say was that a very candid and honest discussion was in progress about a practicable basis of settlement."

The situation still is acute because

GERMANS JUSTIFY ZEPPELIN RAIDS.

Berlin, via Sayville wireless, Aug. 15.—The government has transmitted to the Reichstag a White Book on the Bare long extract in the commentary the government justifies the early killing of English persons during Zeppelin raids on the ground that it might be considered reprisal for the shooting of German sailors by the crew of the Baralong.

RAILROAD AND UNION LEADERS HOPEFUL FOR PEACE PLAN WITHIN 24 HOURS

Conferences with President at White House Likely to Avert Threatened Tie-up.

of the wide latitude that the negotiations are assuming. However, officials closest to the White House continue to profess complete confidence that a compromise yet will be arranged, perhaps within twenty-four hours, which will prevent the threatened strike.

It was alleged that the more the questions at issue were debated and discussed, the stronger became the possibility of ultimate agreement.

The railway managers went to the White House today prepared to fight to the last ditch against acceptance of the original plan proposed by President Wilson that they agree to put the eight-hour working day into effect on their roads immediately, and then allow either the federal conciliation and mediation board or a neutral arbitration tribunal to work out the issues that are continuent therein, including the question of overtime at increased rates and how costs were to be met.

The argument for the roads was made by Elisha Lee, who carried with him to the conference a mass of data which he utilized to prove the contention of the railways that they cannot meet the demands of the men under present rate conditions.

ARGUMENTS SPIRITED.

Today's arguments were of a most spirited character. After the Lee brief had been read the President went into details with the managers and asked numerous questions regarding the claims that they made. He also demanded and received answers to questions that he already had propounded to the brotherhood representatives. It was admitted by many of the managers that today's conference had been more satisfactory than that held yesterday. In discussing this phase one of the managers said:

"Yesterday afternoon the President did not seem to have any settled idea of what should be done. Today it was plain that he has accepted himself as mediator between the roads and the men and that he is determined that he will not let go until a satisfactory solution is in sight. That is a hopeful sign for us, although it may mean that we will have to stay here for a few more days."

"We cannot say what has and is transpiring, because it would be discourteous to the President and might seriously interfere with the plans for settlement, but we believe now that the President intends passing offer and counter-offer back and forth until he finds a way that will meet the views of both sides."

HOT-HEADEDNESS DANGER.

"The great danger, in my opinion, is hot-headedness on the part of the labor leaders, who continue to insist that they cannot arbitrate the eight-hour day. But the President today seemed confident that he would be able to prevent any precipitate closing of any strike orders."

One of the big arguments which spokesman Lee and the other railway managers used to the President today was when they declared the physical difficulties of putting an eight-hour day into operation on railroads under present conditions. If it was just a question of working the men eight hours and then having them stop, they would willingly accept the plan immediately.

But they held that there was hardly a division on any of the railroads in the country that the employes could cover a freight run in eight hours, and because of this, they said, overtime would have to be paid to almost every freight employe. And under the rules this overtime would have to be at the rate of time and a half or double time, thus greatly increasing operating expenses.

Time and again, it is understood, the managers insisted they would gladly give the men a shorter workday, if possible. It was during this discussion that the concrete proposition to accept the eighthor nine-hour work-day in principle was brought up and the proposition made that the roads would declare for it if the men would agree to have the matter of making it effective, together with overtime and the like passed on to a neutral arbitration board.

BOTHERHOODS FIRM.

After the conference broke up, word was sent to the brotherhood representatives, at their hotel, to be prepared to meet the President at 3 o'clock. They declared that they would hold no additional conferences prior to that time.

"We know where we stand today; we knew where we stood yesterday and we know where we will stand tomorrow," said L. B. Garretson of the conductors, "and that is on the principle that we will not surrender our hard-earned gains of thirty years at this time."

None of the officials of the brotherhoods would discuss the proposition of arbitrating the manner in which the eight-hour day was to be put into effect.

"We will have our say to the President," was all they would say.

The President puts responsibility for strike squarely up to the railroad managers, for peace depends upon their decision.

It is understood that the labor leaders have agreed to arbitrate their main contentions—namely, the eight-hour day and time and a half pay for overtime. It is said they have refused to consider arbitration of the railroads' counter-demands.

The President is admittedly especially worried by reports that practically all of the big railroads are agreed that, if the strike finally materializes, they will make no efforts to enforce operation of trains by employing strike-breakers.

Commuters would suffer, for the first trains to be abandoned would be those which serve the Metropolitan district, where the street cars would have to carry a tremendous emergency traffic.

This is the height of the New England sight-seeing season, but a strike would paralyze this traffic, and hotels would be hard hit, while vacationists would find themselves stranded everywhere.

The vast munition trade of New England would be practically paralyzed, for it is absolutely dependent upon the railroads. The gauges used all over the country for munition work are made here, and the paralysis of New England roads would hit even those sparse sections of the country not directly affected.

The automobile industry would be affected, for while many would probably be spurred to buy cars, it would be almost impossible to make deliveries.

"UP TO THE RAILROADS."

Dr. Nelson C. Davis of H. P. Hood & Sons said that 80 per cent. of the milk consumed in Boston is transported by train, and that in the event of a railroad strike conditions would be intolerable, unless arrangements were made to transport the milk to the city.

"It is up to the railroads," he said, "and, while of course we would cooperate with them in every possible way, it would rest with them to see that the milk reached its destination. There isn't milk enough produced within thirty miles of Boston to supply Ward 8 alone.

"In New York, I understand that arrangements have been made so that the milk trains will be run through in the event of a strike. If any similar arrangement has been made in Boston it has not reached my attention.

"The transporting of the milk that reaches Boston is a more difficult situation than exists in New York. There the milk is obtained from very large farms where an entire car is loaded. That car is run on a siding where it is picked up by a milk train which runs, when made up, at express train speed to the city.

"In New England the farms are small, some of them producing but a few cans. The cars are attached for the most part to regular passenger trains, so in the event of a general strike the milk traffic would be affected with everything else.

MILK WITH MAILS.

Charles S. Whiting of D. Whiting & Sons said that between 300,000 and 400,000 quarts of milk were consumed daily in Boston.

"Trains are the only way in which to transport the greater portion of this milk," said Mr. Whiting. "Only a very small amount is produced within a short distance of the city. Motor trucks would be impracticable. The distance the milk is carried varies from 50 to 250 miles.

"In the event of a strike, I believe that some plan might be devised whereby milk cars might be attached to mail trains. I do not believe there is any danger of a milk famine and of course all the dealers would do all in their power in the interest of humanity to see that the milk reached the city."

At the office of the Board of Health it was said that there are approximately 20,000 children in Boston less than one year old, who depend upon milk as an article of diet.

There are also 80,000 more children who are under five years of age, who depend very largely upon milk for their food. The daily per capita consumption of milk for the city is about three-eighths of a quart.

Wilson Tells Weed Controversy Is Grave

President Charles F. Weed of the Boston Chamber of Commerce has a letter from President Wilson saying that an inquiry by the Interstate Commerce Commission would not avail in the present railroad labor crisis. President Wilson wrote, under date of August 11:

My Dear Mr. Weed—Allow me to acknowledge the receipt of your telegram of August 9 conveying to me the vote of the Boston Chamber of Commerce recommending that the Interstate Commerce Commission be instructed by Congress to ascertain the facts in the pending railroad controversy.

You need not doubt that the full importance and gravity of the new acute controversy between the railroads and their employes has been a constant subject of thought and conference with me, or that I have been trying to make sure that no means of assisting a settlement was overlooked.

There is no compulsion of law available by which we could oblige either party to the controversy to await the finding of an inquiry by the Interstate Commerce Commission. And it seems to me that such an inquiry is not a remedy at the moment.

As I write, conference are in progress in New York city between both parties to the controversy and the Federal Board of Mediation and Conciliation, now I am hourly awaiting a report from these conferences before determining what is my duty.

Sincerely yours,
WOODROW WILSON.

Would Ask Milk Trains for Babies in Tie-up

New York, Aug. 15.—An appeal to the railroad men to man enough trains to carry milk to be used by babies and the sick will be made if a great railroad strike should be declared. It is believed that the men would gladly grant such an appeal, as many of them have children of their own and sick relatives who require milk in order that they may live.

On July 1, according to statistics of the Health Department, there were 141,192 children less than one year old in New York, 126,625 between one and three years of age, and 593,901 under five years. The health of all these children would be menaced by shutting off the milk supply, but it would practically mean death to most of those under two years.

How Railroad Strike Would Affect Boston.

If a railroad strike of even a week's duration were to be called on the three big trunk lines that serve Boston, Boston folk would realize more fully than ever before how much the roads contribute to their comfort.

Provision men say there would be danger of a famine of meat and vegetables, coal dealers say the approaching Winter might find coal scarce and hard to get, milk men say no milk could be had except for the hospitals, and railroad men say they cannot tell what might not happen.

Representatives of the roads and of the men have declared there would be no intent to make the public suffer for lack of food, and that by agreement some trains would probably be run to carry needed provisions.

Provision men say that unless something of that kind was done, Boston would begin to suffer within a week.

Boston storage plants are now almost empty. It was stated, owing to high prices and hot weather. Just enough meat is coming in daily for the current consumption, and the supply of smoked meats on the market would last only about ten days.

It is impossible to get meat from the Argentine by water, because the supply is contracted for in Europe.

Seventy per cent. of Boston's milk supply comes from more than twenty-five miles outside of the city. It can hardly be handled except by train. If that supply was cut off the hospitals would consume all that could be brought in.

COMMUTERS WOULD SUFFER.

The potato supply is only barely ahead of the consumption. A few days would see potatoes at a premium or impossible to find.

There is fruit here each day for but a single day. Fresh shipments come every morning.

The egg and butter markets would not be greatly affected, as there are large supplies of both commodities in storage here.

The industrial situation would become critical within a few days if a strike were declared. For lack of raw materials, mills and factories would be forced to shut down, and thousands of men and women would infallibly be thrown out of work.

There is hardly an industrial plant in New England that would not be affected.

President Hustis of the Boston & Maine said yesterday:

"I believe we could keep enough trains running for emergency needs, but emergency needs would not include these manufacturing commodities. They would include only food and such absolute necessities.

Mr. Hustis pointed out, however, that in New York when a storm in 1888 cut off the metropolis from the country, famine was beginning to grip the city on the third day when relief came.

204 CASES IN BAY STATE.

The eleven new cases announced today by the State authorities make a total of 204 reported in this State since June 1 and ninety-four reported since August 1.

Only three cases were reported yesterday for the past thirty-six hours, and Dr. E. B. Kelly, director of the department of communicable diseases, expressed gratification. Today he frankly admitted disappointment at the increase to eleven new cases in twenty-four hours. He said: "You never can tell how a disease of this kind will jump."

Dr. Allan J. McLaughlin, State Health Commissioner, will start for Washington tonight to represent Massachusetts at a Wednesday and Thursday conference of national and State health authorities. The conference has been called by the federal health authorities to adopt uniform methods of fighting infantile paralysis throughout the country.

Carl Holmberg, twenty-one, a sailor, of Brooklyn, died at the City Hospital. He arrived in Boston last Tuesday aboard a yacht. He was taken ill shortly after arriving in this city.

The second Boston death was that of a nineteen-months-old Italian boy who was living at East Third street, South Boston, when stricken with the disease. He contracted the disease in Brooklyn and was then brought to South Boston where it was discovered he was suffering from paralysis.

One new case, that of a four-year-old boy living on Brook avenue, Roxbury, has been found. Five new cases were also reported in cities near Boston: Three in Salem, the first to appear in that city since the outbreak of the epidemic in New York; one in Beverly, which is also a first case, and another in Malden. Six other cases reported from other parts of the State bring the total for the first two weeks in August to eighty-one.

The first death in Dudley from infantile paralysis occurred when Alonzo Forget, the four-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Polidar Forget, was stricken with the disease and died a few hours labor.

Beverly has its first case of infantile paralysis and the victim is Florence Olson of Simon street. The case was discovered by Dr. Martin T. Fields of Salem, who reported to the Beverly Board of Health.

Many New Cases in New York City

By International News Service.

New York, Aug. 15.—Hope that the crest of the infantile paralysis epidemic had been reached was destroyed today by a large increase in the number of new cases and deaths. For the twenty-four hours ending at 10 a. m., the health department reported 163 new cases and thirty-three deaths, an increase of sixty-eight and eight respectively.

The total of cases to date is 6,522, while 1,463 have died from the disease. The experts watching the course of the disease believe that only the cold weather of the fall will check the epidemic. That the number of cases may reach 11,000 is generally believed by the physicians. Several cases among the adults have resulted fatally.

It is apparent from observation of the present plague that any adult who falls victim has a very slight chance of recovery.

Criticism of the health department is steadily increasing. Numerous complaints have been made of dead animals being allowed to lie for several days in the streets.

M'CALL RESENTS TALK ON LIQUOR PROBLEM

were put forward during my absence, I deem it hardly necessary for me to say that I have never favored in the slightest degree a 'wide-open' Boston, and I have never said or done anything which I intended should be susceptible of such a construction, even under the most exquisite torture.

"I believed and I said in effect that the board should exercise all the discretionary power it has in the interest of temperance and morality. If the law gives to the board sufficient power, I will recommend new laws extending such power to it.

"Upon my responsibility as Governor, I appointed to fill the two vacancies upon the board two men of the highest character and ability. I believe that the board as now made up is a good a board as has ever existed in the history of the city, and that its administration will be free from all taint and will make Boston a cleaner and a better city than it has ever been.

"Let these men be judged by their own deeds rather than by the adverse predictions of anybody."

BATES DEPENDS GOVERNOR.

Senator Sanford Bates, who has been intimately concerned both in excise board fights and in the Sunday tabernacle fight, issued a statement, today, defending the Governor's action in both these matters.

As president of the Dorchester No-License Association, Senator Bates led the fight against the old licensing board for locating saloons in Dorchester. In the Senate likewise, he led the fight against the Sunday tabernacle bill.

He called Governor McCall's veto of the tabernacle bill a "high-minded piece of statesmanship." His statement read in part thus:

"Mr. Alvan T. Fuller criticizes the Governor's action in 'removing' Mr. Gow and Mr. Woods from the Licensing Board.

"In the first place these gentlemen were not removed, and in the second place it should be remembered that there was a very persistent and very violent opposition in the suburban districts of Boston to the action of the licensing board in greatly increasing the number of licensed places in the Dorchester and West Roxbury districts.

"For two years I represented these two sections in the Senate, and for three years was president of the Dorchester No-License Association, and I know how bitter the feeling of the church people and others was.

"I feel unwilling to accept the argument of the anti-saloon league that the retirement of Mr. Gow and Mr. Woods was in any way a concession to the liquor interests. The new appointees, Mr. Banney and Mr. Prest, are men of the highest integrity and their names are a guarantee that the liquor men may expect no favors at their hands.

"HIGH-MINDED" ACT.

"It is not impossible that the veto of the Sunday tabernacle bill may have been in the minds of the Sunday committee when the invitation to the Governor was overlooked.

"I happened to be Senate chairman of the committee which considered the application of the Sunday committee for a suspension of the Boston building laws, and no one who knows the ins and outs of this contest I have no hesitation in saying that the Governor's veto was a high-minded piece of statesmanship."

ENJOINS SOCIETY BALLOT IN VICE ISSUE

A temporary injunction was served on Secretary of State A. P. Langtry today, restraining him from printing, issuing, distributing or delivering any ballots based on the reapportionment of Suffolk County.

The injunction was secured by former Mayor Nathan Matthews. Secretary Langtry will appear in court Friday morning to show cause why the injunction should not be made permanent.

LEGISLATURE MAY MEET.

A special session of the Legislature to consider the reapportionment of Suffolk County will be called before the end of this week, it was indicated at the State House today.

Sergeant-at-Arms Thomas F. Pedrick set his men to work in the House chamber, preparing it for a session. The desks were cleaned out, the ink wells filled, and everything put in readiness.

The same treatment was given the Senate chamber.

This followed a special session of the Governor's Council this morning, when a statement was received from Attorney-General Attwill.

At a meeting yesterday, the council had addressed to the Supreme Court questions to determine the rights of the Legislature in the reapportionment crisis.

SUGGESTS DELAY.

No direct reply had been received from the Court today, but the statement of Attorney-General Attwill was taken as a summary of the legal situation. He said:

"The attorney-general, having at the request of the Governor and Council investigated the matter of reapportionment of representatives for Suffolk county, expressed the opinion that it would seem the rule of apportionment laid down by the Constitution had not been followed, and that action by the Legislature, which can only be instituted by a call for a special session, might soon be necessary; but that the main issue was likely soon to be decided in court, and so that it is better to delay action till the determination by the court of the validity of this apportionment, assuming that this decision will be speedily rendered."

Sergeant-at-Arms Pedrick said in explaining his action in preparing the chambers for occupancy:

FAVORS PREPAREDNESS.

"This is a matter of preparedness with us. All I know is what I have seen in the papers. I, of course, have received no private advice. But the work of preparing for a special session could not be completed in less than a day, so I set the men to work at once."

The special session, if called, will consider these questions:

1—Whether to extend beyond Saturday the time for filing nomination papers certified by local boards of registration?

2—Whether the legislature could legally appoint another reapportionment board.

That the mayor and council might be appointed has been suggested.

Timothy J. Buckly, the only Democratic member of the Governor's Council, said today that if the reapportionment of Suffolk County is overthrown, he will take steps to reapportion Worcester, Essex and Middlesex counties.

MAY PASS NEW LAWS.

Eleven special sessions of the Legislature have been called since 1835.

Legislative experts agreed today that while a session may be called for a special purpose, the solons, once assembled, could enact any general or special laws they saw fit.

Legislation to enable the militiamen at the front to vote at the State election and providing for the salaries of State employes who have been called to the front as members of the militia stand out as pressing needs.

The cost of getting the Legislature together has been estimated at $30,000.

SOCIETY IN WAR ISSUE

By International News Service.

New York, Aug. 15.—Revelations in the vice investigation in this city has induced a number of society women to offer their services to stamp out the evil and to help girls rescued from the clutches of "white slavers."

In addition to this unofficial agency the police department is co-operating with the District Attorney's office in the greatest vice hunt this city has ever known.

Information given to Assistant District Attorney Smith by Tusho Botwin, head of the so-called "vice trust," involves two more policemen as collectors of graft, making five in all so far mentioned by witnesses questioned by the assistant district attorney.

MORE INDICTMENTS TO COME.

This information will be given to the Grand Jury later in the week. As the result of this testimony Mr. Smith believes that at least four more indictments will be returned.

Botwin has given the names of four more persons who were active in the "white slave trade," and they are said to have sold thousands of girls to keepers of resorts during the past few years.

The latest revelations made by Botwin led closer to the doors of a police captain and a lieutenant, District Attorney Swann declared; and he added that he would press his inquiries until he had laid hands on the officials.

His former revelations concerning the way schoolgirls are lured from home and made the creatures of the "vice trust" were supplemented by Botwin.

Good-looking young men, cadets, furnished with plenty of expense money, and moving picture theatres, many of them operated by the "vice trust" for this purpose—these, Botwin explained, were the instruments of prime importance.

At the "movies" the cadets met the girls, followed them to their homes, and then investigated their antecedents. If a girl was the family of good standing the cadet usually wasted no more time. But if she were of a family of foreigners, little conversant with American ways of life, he closed in, dazzled her with a display of money, gave her a taste of the tawdry night life of Broadway—and the rest, as Botwin explained, "was easy."

THE ROAD WAS "EASY."

Girls thus lured from home, through the medium of acquaintance struck up at a "movie" theatre or outside of a public school, have been, as a rule, sent to Chicago, Philadelphia, Newark, Jersey City, Paterson, Pittsburgh, or some other large town.

Then the girls, Botwin explained, began earning money for their masters, and the profits became fabulous.

The first step, after the girls were lured away, however, was to place them in certain houses, Botwin explained. The mistresses of the houses took charge of the money of the girls and divided with the "vice trust" and its agents, the cadets.

A number of other witnesses, suspected of having knowledge of the white slave traffic and the methods by which the police involved levied hush money, were summoned to the district attorney's office, but their testimony was not revealed.

Other speakers will be Hon. Joseph O'Connell, Hon. Frank Hugo Krebs and Hon. James M. Curley.

NEW PEACE RUMORS IN EUROPE

New York, Aug. 15. — There is a widespread belief a only well-informed business men here that peace negotiations are tentatively in progress in Europe.

Half a dozen different considerations led to this belief.

A dispatch from Spain said that Count Romanones, the Spanish Premier, had been holding long conferences with the Austrian Ambassador over the week end. The conferences were quite outside the usual diplomatic intercourse, and they alone would have been felt to have significance.

Another striking fact—in spite of Washington's disclaimer—was that William G. Sharp, American Ambassador to France, has gone to Germany before returning to this country "on leave."

Mr. Sharp went to Germany ostensibly to visit French prison camps; but for three days he has been in Berlin holding conferences hour after hour with high government officials and men on whose words peace will eventually hang.

Secretary of State Lansing in Washington said: "Ambassador Sharp is merely coming home on leave of absence." Nevertheless it was pointed out that if peace negotiations are in progress through our ambassadors, the State Department would as a matter of courtesy disclaim such proceedings.

COMING OF AMBASSADORS.

The fact that Ambassador Sharp, from Paris, and Ambassador Page, from London, are to be in this country simultaneously, is considered of the highest significance. It is considered unlikely that the State Department would allow these two representatives of the allied nations to come home simultaneously unless for a purpose more significant than a mere vacation.

But these are not the only indications that point to peace negotiations. The Swedish newspapers, with surprising unanimity, are predicting an early peace, and there is a general inclination among them to set November as the date for the cessation of hostilities.

Holland, Switzerland and all of Scandinavia are full of peace rumors, and they come apparently from sources not without authority.

That the Turks have sent a plenipotentiary to Switzerland to discuss the situation with allied representatives is reported from two sources. Rome says Bulgaria and Turkey's diplomats have arrived in Berne and are in touch there with diplomatic agents of the allies. German and Austrian agents are also in Berne.

Diplomats have agreed since early in the war that Switzerland would most probably be the scene of the final peace negotiations.

The logic of the situation points to peace. For two years it has been predicted that peace would not come till the allied drive had been tried. When the British and French offensive in Picardy began, it was officially intimated in Paris and London that this was the allied drive, the attack in force, which it was hoped would break the German lines.

But the lines held, yielding like an elastic band, but resilient. It became evident that, without a war of exhaustion, the German lines could not be broken.

Germany had long ago expressed her willingness to discuss peace. Premier Asquith as the spokesman for the allies had repeatedly stated, however, that there could be no peace till Germany was "crushed."

After it became evident that the allied drive would not readily break the German lines, the Premier made a new statement in Parliament which gave to peace conditions merely the restoration of Belgium and Poland.

GERMANY WOULD ACCEPT.

In other words, Mr. Asquith substantially stated that England would be satisfied with the restoration, in Europe, of the "status quo ante bellum."

Asquith did not even demand that Alsace and Lorraine pass to France. There is small doubt that Germany would accept those terms.

Now the signs from the capitals of Europe are taken as strong indications that tentative peace negotiations are actually under way.

BRITISH RECOVER CAPTURED TRENCHES

By SIDNEY B. CAVE.
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

London, Aug. 15.—Nearly all the trenches captured by the Germans northwest of Pozieres, on the Somme front, during Sunday, have been reconquered by the British, the War Office announced this afternoon.

In spite of the deep mud resulting from the heavy rain storm on Monday there was fighting along the western slope of the ridge north of Pozieres last night.

Strong attacks were delivered by the British troops after the German positions had been subjected to a powerful bombardment. The Germans resisted desperately, but the British were able to penetrate the Teuton position, occupying important trenches which they had lost thirty-six hours earlier.

The text of the War Office report follows:

"As the result of local fighting northwest of Pozieres during the past two days we have retaken nearly the whole of the trenches in which the enemy gained a footing early Sunday. During the night we forced an entry into the enemy's trenches near Mouquet farm, returning with eleven prisoners.

"On the right flank two attempts by hostile detachments to raid our trenches were repulsed with loss to the enemy. Northwest of Hulluch the enemy exploded a small mine and we occupied the crater.

"During the night we feinted a raid against trenches south of Armentieres, causing a commotion in the enemy's lines."

ARABS CAPTURE SHIP'S SURVIVORS

Rome, Aug. 15.—A Tripoli dispatch reports that one of the missing lifeboats of the steamer Antinoo, sunk by an Austrian submarine, reached the coast of North Africa with eight survivors who had been given up for dead. The entire party was captured by Arabian rebels and carried into the interior.

A rescue expedition is to try to effect the release of the prisoners who include several women.

WAR SUMMARY

Piris today reported a German bombardment of unusual proportions on the Picardy front, which was followed by German infantry attacks.

These attacks, the French say, resulted in only temporary gains for the Germans.

Since the big allied attack of two days ago, which gained ground for the British, a German counter attack there has resulted in the recapture of some of the territory. The Germans say all of it was recaptured; the British say a part fell again into German hands.

In the last three weeks the only important gain made by the allies has been the capture of Pozieres by the British. The French have strengthened their lines just north of the Somme, wiping out a German salient.

There was considerable activity in the Rheims sector, according to the official reports today; and a strong French offensive in that locality is not improbable. The French opened a vigorous bombardment, and followed it with strong infantry attacks, but the Germans say no gains were made.

There was hard but indecisive fighting about Fleury at Verdun yesterday.

The Italians, after their capture of Gorizia, have struck a snag. They claim successes in minor engagements yesterday, but the Austrian report gives a more reasonable view of the situation. The Austrians say the Italians seven times attacked the Austrian line behind Gorizia. They say no gains were made by their enemy, and they claim to have captured 5,000 Italians since the offensive began.

The Russian front was marked only by manoeuvring actions yesterday. The Russian forces occupied Zborov, which is just over fifty miles in a straight line from Lemberg, and about sixty-five miles by railroad. This is their nearest approach to the Galician stronghold. Zborov is a railroad town of some importance southwest of Brody, and Zloczow is the city immediately in front of this Russian army, where the Austrians may choose to make a stand.

There is a long bulletin from the Turks today, reporting continued successes in Persia. More important is the Turkish advance in the region of Mush, north of Lake Van. The Turks won a victory yesterday north of Mush; and this places Turkish forces south and slightly east of Erzerum and nearer to that city than Erzingan, to which point the Russians have advanced. The Russians must meet this menace from the south or give up their Caucasus campaign.

A British destroyer has been submarined and the Italian dreadnought Leonardo da Vinci was destroyed by a fire and explosion while in one of her own harbors.

GERMAN SHIPS HERE ARE CAUSE OF SUIT

The steamers Willehad and Wittekind of the North German Lloyd Steamship Company), which are in refuge in Boston harbor from British warships, are causes of a suit filed yesterday in the federal court at San Francisco against the owners of the steamers. Schraubstedter, representing the Pacific States Trading Company, complains that he contracted with the North German Lloyd to sell the two ships on a 5 per cent. commission for $450,000 each to a group of San Francisco capitalists. He says that the North German Lloyd failed to deliver the steamers after the sale was made. The suit reveals a plan to establish a new passenger and freight service on the Pacific Coast.

BERLIN ADMITS BRITISH GAIN TRENCHES

By International News Service.

Berlin, Aug. 15.—Official admission that the British have regained a foothold in the German trenches northwest of Pozieres on the Somme front is contained in the report issued by the War Office today.

The War Office report reads:

"West front—On Monday afternoon the British repeated their attacks against our positions on the Ovillers-Inzentin-Le-Petit line, assaulting with the greatest violence. They again obtained a foothold in the some section of trenches on the Thiepval-Pozieres front, from which they were repulsed yesterday morning. Otherwise the numerous attacks made at short intervals broke down with considerable losses in front of our trenches.

"The French twice repeated their fruitless efforts between Maurepas and Hem.

"Between the Ancre and the Somme and further south there have developed artillery duels which are still in progress.

"East front—Army group of Field Marshal von Hindenburg—All Russian attacks against the Ilun and Grabenka sectors south of Brody failed.

"Army group of Archduke Karl—General von Bothmer's forces completely repulsed attacks in the Zborow-Koniechy sector and on the highroads leading from Brzezany and Podhorey to Kozowa, west of Monasterzyska. The Russians lost heavily.

"Balkan front—The enemy, about a battalion strong, attacked Bulgarian advanced posts at Lake Doiran, but was repulsed."

Heavy Bombardment of Bulgar Positions.

By International News Service.

Salonica, Aug. 15.—"The operations began by the allies at Lake Doiran early today, following their normal course," says an official statement issued by the Anglo-French headquarters today.

Refugees from the Lake Doiran area, where the Anglo-French and Serbian forces are attacking the Bulgarians, reached Kilkitch today and asserted that the Bulgarians had suffered heavy losses.

The bombardment of the Bulgarian positions was terrific. The populace of the nearby villages have sought refuge behind the allied lines, where they are being succored by the British and French.

GERMANS GAIN, THEN LOSE, ON SOMME

By CHARLES F. BERTELLI.
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

Paris, Aug. 15.—German artillery, both north and south of the Somme River, was very active all night, carrying out a vigorous bombardment of British and French positions.

French positions south of the Somme were under a particularly heavy fire.

Infantry attacks were made by the Germans southwest of Peronne, the French War Office stated in its daily communique, and the Teutons were successful in penetrating a small salient north of Estrees. French counter assaults were delivered immediately afterward, and the Germans were ejected from their freshly gained ground. At Belloy-en-Santerre, northeast of Estrees, a German reconnaissance was dispersed.

In the Verdun sector the French made a good attack against the German position at La Chappelle Ste. Fine (on the right bank of the Meuse) and scored some progress.

The text of the official communique follows:

"On the Somme front there was great activity on the part of our artillery in some sectors north of the river, as well as in the region south of Belloy and Estrees and north of Lions. South of Belloy a German reconnoitring party was dispersed by rifle fire.

"North of the Ancre an enemy detachment penetrated after a sharp bombardment into a small salient of our lines northwest of Beaulne. It was chased out by our immediate counter attacks.

"On the right bank of the Meuse (Verdun front) a series of brilliant actions by our grenade forces north of Chappelle Sainte Fine enabled us to capture German trench elements on a front of 200 yards and to a depth of about 100 yards. The enemy, attempting a counter offensive, his attack was shattered by our curtain of fire. There was a rather violent bombardment in the sectors of Fleury and Vaux-Chapitre."

Italians Take 1,693 Austrian Prisoners.

By International News Service.

Rome, Aug. 15.—The capture of 1,693 more Austro-Hungarian prisoners was announced today by the Italian War Office. The battle which has developed east of the captured fortress of Gorizia is still in progress. The Italians have captured strongly defended Austro-Hungarian entrenchments in that area, the official report says.

On the Carso plateau southeast of Gorizia, the Austro-Hungarians made strong counter attacks, but they broke down under the Italian fire. Further progress has also been made by the Italians west of Monte Sagrado and Monte Pecinka, where trenches were Genoa, Aug. 15.—The Italian steamer Teti has been sunk by a submarine in the Mediterranean. Part of the crew was landed here today, but seventeen men are missing. The Teti displaced 2,868 tons and was built in 1883.

London, Aug. 15.—A dispatch to Lloyd's this afternoon reported the sinking of the Italian steamship Giovanni Battista, 1,067 tons, and the Rosario, 237 tons, by submarines.

Nature Often Needs Help to Hold Health

The first requirement is to offer something that will not harm the stomach by poisoning the system or creating a habit-appetite that may lead to a worse condition.

That is one reason why Eckman's Alterative, for more than twenty years a successful treatment in pulmonary asthmatic and bronchial troubles, has attained success.

It is absolutely safe to take. It contains nothing to poison one or induce a habit. Yet its combination of calcium chlorid is such that most persons can assimilate it easily.

If you are suffering the serious effects of a neglected cold or in the grip of deep-seated pulmonary infection, a trial is worth while.

For All Pain

"The efficiency of any drug" says Dr. C. F. Robbins, "is known to us by the results we obtain from its use. If we are able to control pain and disease by means of any preparation, we certainly are warranted in its use. One of the principal symptoms of all diseases is pain, and this is what the patient most often applies to us for, i. e, something to relieve his pain. If we can arrest this promptly the patient is most liable to trust in us for the other remedies which will effect a permanent cure. One remedy which I have used largely in my practice is anti-kamnia tablets. Many and varied are their uses. I have put them to the test on many occasions, and have never been disappointed. I found them especially valuable for headaches of malarial origin, following which quinine was being taken. They appear to prevent the bad effects of the quinine. Anti-kamnia tablets are also excellent for the headaches from improper digestion; also for headaches of a neuralgic origin, and especially for women subject to pains at certain times. Two anti-kamnia tablets give prompt relief, and in a short time the patient is able to go about as usual. These tablets may be obtained at all druggists. Ask for A-K Tablets. They are also unexcelled for toothaches, neuralgia and all pain.

A Single Application Will Banish Objectionable Hairs

(Aids to Beauty)

Here is a home treatment for removing hairs that is quick, painless and inexpensive. With some powdered delatone and water make enough paste to thickly cover the objectionable hairs, apply and after 2 or 3 minutes rub off, wash the skin and it will be left soft, clear and hairless. This treatment will not mar the skin, but to avoid disappointment, be careful to get real delatone.—Advertisement.

SLAVS ADVANCE PAST RIVER CROSSING

By International News Service.

Petrograd, Aug. 15.—More crossings on the Zlota Lipa and Bystrzyca Rivers have been won by the Russians.

Announcement of this success was made today by the War Office. It was also stated that the Russians are advancing in the region west of the upper Strypa.

The official report reads:

"We are advancing toward the west in the region of the upper Strypa. Russian troops have won more crossings over the Zlota Lipa and Bystrzyca Rivers to the western bank, reaching Solotvinskaia (Solotvina).

"Our aviators raided the aerodome at Lake Agern, in Courland, bombing sheds. An enemy aeroplane was shot down, but all our machines returned safely.

"Caucasus front—The Turkish position at Bakhis has been captured by us. The enemy is in flight."

The Russian force that captured Zborow on the Strypa river is now moving on Zloczow, on the railway which joins the main Lemberg line. Along the Zlota Lipa the Russians are successfully attacking the Austro-Hungarian positions on the hills.

There has been no confirmation of the report of the capture of Halicz, on the Dniester, but many military critics believe that the city is already in Russian hands.

The Austro-German armies of General Pflanzer, General von Bothmer and General Von Boehm-Ermolli are under continuous pressure.

At some points the Teuton lines have been drawn in until they are only about 15 miles from Lemberg, the chief objective of the Russians in

DRUGS WORTH $1,200 TAKEN IN CRUSADE

One of the largest seizures of narcotic drugs made by the police since the Harrison law went into effect was displayed in the District Attorney's office today by the officers who made a raid on the office of Dr. Louis Herman, on Dover street. The drugs are valued at about $1,200.

The raid was made after officers of Station Five had arrested Miss Ellen Ryan, of No. 99 Norway street, shortly after she had left the office of the doctor after buying drugs.

The district attorney announced a new crusade on the drug evil. Miss Ryan and the doctor were arraigned in the Municipal Court today on charges of violating the drug laws. Their cases were continued until August 21.

GRAND JURY MAY ACT.

The district attorney announced that he would ask the lower court to decline jurisdiction, so that the grand jury might handle the case.

The woman defendant was recently found guilty in the Roxbury court of having drugs in her possession. She was fined $100 and given a suspended sentence of four months.

Frank Gammerdella of the South End, known to the police as one of the most extensive drug peddlers in the city, and the man who was arrested by officers of the Dedham street station for selling drugs to young girls, was sentenced to twenty-one months in the House of Correction by Judge Keating in the Superior Court today.

20,000 GET DRUGS.

Lieutenant McDevitt has been working secretly for the past month investigating the prescription books of druggists in Suffolk County to find out how many prescriptions have been filled for drugs.

As the result of the investigation of Lieutenant McDevitt there is a report showing that more than 20,000 prescriptions have been filled by Suffolk County druggists.

The State Commission on Drugs, composed of Assistant District Attorney Webber, Dr. Frank G. Wheatley and Dr. Herman C. Lythgoe, are now holding meetings with the intention of submitting a report to the Governor.

CONTROVERSY OVER TITANIC MEMORIAL

A controversy over the site for the $40,000 Titanic disaster memorial statue, the design of which was made by Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney, has prevented the Quincy firm which carved the work from shipping it to Potomac Park, Washington.

The trouble started when Congress appropriated money to build a power house on part of the site selected for the memorial. Since that time Mrs. Whitney and a number of the other prominent society women who gave towards the $40,000 fund for the State have been trying to secure a new site, still unchosen.

Great Italian Warship Blows Up; 300 Killed

By International News Service.

Paris, Aug. 15.—The Italian dreadnought Leonardo da Vinci has been blown up in Taranto harbor, Italy, with the loss of 200 members of her crew, according to an unofficial dispatch received here today.

The explosion, which is the outbreak of five on board. Flames were discovered in the ship's galley and spread with great rapidity.

The crew undertook to flood the magazine and beach the dreadnought, but the explosion occurred before shallow water could be reached.

A big hole was torn in the warship's hull and she rolled over on her beam ends, throwing many of the sailors into the water, where large numbers were drowned before they could be rescued.

It is believed the ship can be floated after repairs are made.

The Leonardi da Vinci displaced 22,340 tons and her armaments consisted of thirteen 12-inch guns, nine in three turrets on the centre line and four in pairs in turrets firing over the end of triple turrets; eight on 4.7-inch guns in batteries; eight or 3-inch guns, and three 1-inch torpedo tubes.

The warship was launched in 1911 and placed in commission in 1913. The two sister ships of the Leonardo da Vinci's class are the Conte di Cavour and the Giulio Cesare.

Yachtsman from Quincy Is Saved by Fishermen

The fishing schooner Lottie Merchant towed to the Fish Pier today the twenty-six foot yacht Winifred, and its new owner, a Quincy youth, who had been blown out to sea while trying to sail the boat up from Onset. The Winifred's skipper, who is about twenty years old, had been without food for thirty-six hours when picked up by the Lottie Merchant, near Harding's Ledge, beyond the Graves lightship, last night.

The Quincy skipper started from Onset Saturday, went through the Cape Canal, out into Cape Cod Bay and anchored off Plymouth. The wind rose until the yacht dragged anchors and was blown out to sea. All Saturday night and Sunday he had his hands full keeping the yacht right side up. The Sunday breakfast took the last of his food.

The Winifred's sails were badly torn by the wind, but the skipper managed to work the vessel toward Boston, arriving off Harding's ledge late yesterday. He anchored, ran up a flag of distress and was picked up. Hungry and exhausted, by the Lottie Merchant.

Stabbed to Death in Quarrel Over a Cup of Coffee

James Germono was fatally stabbed by Michael Lopio in Salem today in a quarrel over a cup of coffee.

Both were Boston & Maine section hands. They were eating breakfast in the section car on North street siding at 6:30. Germono objected to the coffee Lopio said it was good. The police report that, after sharp argument, Lopio threw a cup of hot coffee in Germono's face. There was a furious exchange of crockery until Lopio grasped a table knife, stabbed Germono over the heart and bolted from the car.

Germono died within an hour at Salem Hospital. Lopio was caught by Patrolman Richard Brennan and was locked up.

COHAN REVUE OF 1916' IS HIT

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Aug. 15.—"Cohan and Harris presents 'The Cohan Revue, 1916,' at the Apollo theatre here last night before a brilliant cosmopolitan audience that packed the playhouse. The presentation and chorus is almost identical with that which appeared in it during its recent long New York run at the Walt. Elizabeth H. Murray, John Rogers, Grace Nolan, Miss Juliet Arnold, Florence Curtis, Richard Carle, Charles Winninger, James C. Morrison, Harry Bulger, Fred Santley, Harry Delf, Little Billy, Jerry Cady, John Hendricks, John Eineson and the rest of the principals scored a big hit in their individual parts. The Cohan Revue, 1916," is a riot of mirth, melody and fun. The all-star cast is environed by a galaxy of glorious girls gorgeously gowned in the last word of the costumer's art.

The only George M. Cohan this latest product of his pen a musical crazy-quilt, patched together and threaded with words and music. This particular crazy-quilt outshines anything of the sort our grandmothers were wont to piece together, and it covers, or rather uncovers, the absolutely best musical show ever seen on the American stage.

Musical numbers in Cohan's best style, satirical quips, merry jest and side-splitting travesties follow in sequence and the rapidity of an express train, and laughter accompanies the entire trip. The show leaves here early next Saturday morning via special train service, reaching Boston and the Cohan Grand Opera House.

CASTLE SQUARE THEATRE—The Castle Square Theatre will open its season on the afternoon of Labor Day, September 4, with a production of the popular Southern drama, "Heart of Dixie." This will inaugurate the new Castle Square policy by which the house will book the attractions of the International Circuit.

MOXIE PLANS FOR NOVEL SHOWS

"ONE of the chief Summer amusements," declares Frank Archer, the vice-president of the Moxie Company, "is drinking Moxie. But if that isn't enough Moxie furnishes all sorts of free amusement to the public through its features. There is Fred Wilson, for example. He is the champion stilt walker of the world, bar none. He is a nonpareil attraction. Wilson is in demand everywhere there is a desire to catch the eye of the crowd. The Moxie Company has on file a list of country fairs which have applied for him. All Wilson has to do is to walk down any street and business and traffic is suspended."

Then there is the Moxie Horse Mobile. This weird vehicle doesn't carry a line of advertisement upon it. A white horse riding in an automobile. Perhaps a red headed girl is riding the horse and guiding the machine through a steering wheel in the animal's neck.

Muriel Ostriche is certainly entertaining. Muriel is one of the most brilliant of the photoplay actresses. In the last two or three years she has forged to the front of the World Film Company.

Mr. Archer, however, intends to get into the amusement business even stronger. He has a big card up his sleeve which he will spring very soon. When it is disclosed old P. T. Barnum will have nothing on Moxie as a showman.

GLOBE THEATRE—The photo feature for the week at the Globe Theatre, which is continuing its Summer policy of entire programs of screen bills, changed three times weekly, is plentifully varied to please the tastes of all who take their amusement fare through the motion picture offerings yesterday and today the first-run feature is Frank Mills in "The House of Mirrors." On Wednesday and Thursday the feature will be Lillian Walker in "The Man Behind the Curtain," and the week-end feature will be Louise Lovely in "Bettina Loved a Soldier."

WILBUR STARS "VERY GOOD EDDIE"

By FRED J. McISSAC.

THE Marbury-Comstock company presented "Very Good Eddie" at the Wilbur Theatre last night. Boston was apparently ravenous for the theatre after several weeks of fasting, and the entire house was sold out despite the warmth of the August evening.

It will be remembered that the same producers brought over "Nobody Home" last year about this time and punctured all midsummer records with it. Catchy titles are one of the secrets of the success of Miss Marbury and Mr. Comstock. "Nobody Home" was the argot of the moment a year ago, while "Very Good Eddie" was snitched from the famous ventriloquial scene in "Chin Chin."

"Very Good Eddie" is rather more of a show than its predecessor, because it is a rebuilt farce comedy.

It hit New York in Buffalo, ran a whole season there and now the Boston share of the original company has been brought over to Boston, while another outfit continues at the New York casino.

I say the lion's share advisedly, because Ernest Truex came over Ernie is little and not very strong, but old man Atlas had nothing on him when it came to carrying things on his back. Ernie carries "Very Good Eddie" and no mistake. When he sees off to change his costume, or wipe his brow, or get a drink of water, the show lies down and shams dead.

If you remember "Over Night" there were two bridal couples who got mixed up. A tall, husky young man and a timid, dove-like wife, and a burly ruffian of a woman and a meek and retiring little husband. Truex plays the rabbit-like husband. Never mind about anything else. Pay your way in to see him.

OTHER STARS IN SHOW.

There are other good people in the show. Alice Dovey is sweet and clever and can sing. Anna Orr is very humorous, a compliment of parts one can't sing. Oscar Shaw sings lustily and well and endeavors to be amusing with indifferent success.

Florence Earle works very hard as a middle-aged singing teacher, but makes too many motions. And Donovan Maley, as a hotel clark, performs like the dope fiend in a burlesque show.

The chorus is typical Marbury, sweet and winsome girls, exquisitely attired.

WALDRON'S CASINO—Max Spiegel, the producer of "The Merry Rounders," will offer to the patrons of Waldron's Casino next week as the opening attraction his latest and best effort, "The Spiegel Revue." This production is regarded as one of the leaders of its kind and nearer to a spectacular musical aggregation, with its brilliant illuminations and costuming.

VILLA NAPOLI—At no period of the Summer season is the seashore more attractive than in the mid-August, for not only is the season at its greatest height but the weather and water conditions are ideal. At Nantasket Beach, the Villa Napoli has proved through its five years of existence the most distinctive place of entertainment.

MISS SULLIVAN WEDS C. F. RAINVILLE

Maynard, Aug. 15.—Miss Marcella Sullivan, daughter of former Representative Patrick J. Sullivan of this town and Columbus Felix Rainville, son of Mr. and Mrs. Felix Rainville of Summit street, this town, were married in St. Bridget's Church by the assistant pastor, the Rev. P. J. Meagher. Miss Marion Sullivan of Maynard, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid, and Louis Sullivan, also of this town, brother of the bride, was best man.

"ON THE NILE," BIG SHOW AT ORPHEUM

WITH a company and scenic production that well might grace a legitimate theatre offering the musical comedy, "On the Nile" leads the vaudeville bill at the Orpheum Theatre. It is a pretentious offering for vaudeville—the book and music are far in advance of the average, and the company is especially capable.

The surrounding bill is not dwarfed by the headliner, the numbers including Thornton and Curlew, a capable pair of entertainers through new songs and late vintage mush; Instructor Francis Murphy, who puts a most humorous patch upon present day topics; Bessie Leonard, a beautiful young woman who sings character songs; Evelyn and Dolly, a versatile brace of femininity; William Norrow, assisted by Esther Joy in an engaging little musical playlet, "On a Country Road;" Joe D'Lier, a piano-accordionist extraordinary, and others.

MAJESTIC THEATRE—The same story applies to the condition of affairs at the Majestic Theatre today as applied six weeks ago, before the opening of the regular Boston dramatic season was simply a matter of the near future. Full houses four times daily is still the record of that dazzling photoplay, "Where Are My Children?" which last night entered upon its seventh big week in this city.

BOSTON THEATRE—One big, long show of the best vaudeville and several exclusive pictures, headed by Cyril Scott's world-wide romance, "The Prince Chap," by Edward Peple, in five great parts, adapted from the book and play of the same name, is offered at the Boston Theatre this week. "The Prince Chap" is one of the sweetest and cleanest stories ever written. Second only in interest to "The Prince Chap" is "The Fighting Heiress," a two-part Western society drama featuring Marin Sais, the "Girl from Frisco," and True Boardman. It is the first of a series of stories written around the fascinating "Girl from Frisco." Another big picture feature is the first time in Boston of George Ade's incomparable slang classics, "Patsy." Arbuckle, also runs Charlie Chaplin a close race for the honors as the funniest man on the "movies," will be another big attraction appearing in one of his best pictures, and Mary Pickford also is seen in a charming romance.

COLONIAL THEATRE—The music of "The Amber Empress" which opens at the Colonial Theatre next Monday evening is said to be the brightest and catchiest of any musical comedy seen in Boston in a long time. It is the work of Zoel Parenteau, a composer new to this country, and Max Bendix, who will lead the orchestra of forty pieces, is busily rehearsing his men so that the opening performances may adequately show up all the beauties of the score.

STRONG PLAY AT GORDON'S OLYMPIA

GORDON'S OLYMPIA—Again a double bill at Gordon's Olympia, and a crashing good one it is, including Vivian Martin in "The Stronger Love" and Mabel Taliaferro in "God's Half Acre," two extremely strong film plays. And then there is vaudeville. Vivian Martin is well cast as Nell Service in "The Stronger Love." It is a character with a strong appeal—the character of a child of nature whose only books have been the woods and streams of her country home. A thirst for education is satisfied later through her own efforts, but does not bring the happiness she anticipated. Mabel Taliaferro, whom one recalls as "Polly of the Circus," and Rebecca, again demonstrates her ability to shine in the silent drama, as well as in the spoken.

MEDFORD BOULEVARD THEATRE—At the Medford Boulevard Summer Theatre yesterday afternoon and evening Manager Gorman presented a program of vaudeville of exceptional merit and, judging by the applause that greeted each number by the two capacity attendances, its success was instantaneous. An act that proved to be a material success, and will be heard this season, was offered by the Doree Opera Company, consisting of three of the various operas. This company includes nine soloists. Another feature act that was immensely popular was that offered by Foley and O'Neill, two Boston boys.

BASS POINT—Bass Point, in point of location and surroundings, is the ideal resort, always cool breezes blow over this promontory jutting out into the ocean. The one hour's sail down the harbor and across the Bay to Bass Point passing all points of interest is in itself a trip long to be remembered. Steamers leave Bay Line Wharf at frequent intervals during the day and evening. Last boat from Bass Point at 9:45 p. m. Another way to go is to Ocean Pier, Revere Beach, steamers leaving for Bass Point on a half-hourly schedule during the day and evening.

NORUMBEGA PARK—Patrons of Norumbega Park have set a seal of approval on "The Millionaire Princess," the sparkling musical comedy which is being presented this week in the open-air theatre. The production has scored great success at the Summer theatre and the greeting accorded it at yesterday's performances indicates that this success is well deserved.

MODERN THEATRE—With race horses, the atmosphere of the track, the high-pitched excitement of a race on the result of which depends the happiness of a courageous girl all formed a thrilling climax to William Fox's latest release, "Sporting Blood," which was shown for the first time at the Modern Theatre yesterday, where it will continue for the entire week.

MERRY CARD AT KEITH'S AMUSES

"At the Flag Station" is the headliner at B. F. Keith's Theatre this week. "The Meistersingers," foremost male singing organization in this country, who are at the theatre for a week's run, feature the act. Solos, choruses and concert numbers are included in the repertoire of selections rendered by these famous singers. Especially pleasing were the solos of A. Cameron Steele and Harold S. Trip, who were received with great applause. Encore after encore was given by the twelve soloists, who scored in group singing.

Other features include Albertina Rasch, who will be the premier of the new Ellis Grand Opera Company next season; the Equilli Brothers, Joe Laurie and Alexa Bronson, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Wilde, Lew Wilson, Tom Kerr and Steffy Berko, Jack Onri, Tom Edwards and Alice Mellville and the Hearst International News Pictorial.

ST. JAMES THEATRE—The leading act at Loew's St. James Theatre the first half of this week is the Grace St. Clair Company in the playlet, "A Hundred Dollar Bet." This is in reality a tabloid comedy drama that is lively in action with bright dialogue and a rattling big surprise at the end.

TO EXHUME BODY OF BRIDE WHO DIED ON TOUR

As a result of an application presented by the heirs of Mrs. Emma Best nee Zick O'Donnell, who died on a train while on a wedding tour the day after her marriage to Dr. Louis D. O'Connell of Melrose, District Attorney Pelletier has ordered that her body, which is buried at Mt. Hope Cemetery, be exhumed and examined for traces of poison.

A rigid microscopic examination of the body will be made by Medical Examiner Magrath as soon as he returns from the West, where he has gone on a short trip.

Mrs. O'Donnell died on a train near Utica, N. Y. District Attorney Bradley Fuller of Utica had Dr. Albert H. Hamilton of Auburn, N. Y., make an analysis of the visceral organs of Mrs. O'Donnell, and he reported that he found traces of poison. He, however, suggested that the blood and some of the parts of the body be submitted to a microscopic examination.

SAY NEWPORT MAYOR STRUCK NAVAL MAN

Newport, R. I., Aug. 15.—Charges that Mayor Patrick J. Boyle of this city struck an officer of the United States navy a blow in the face, and that the Mayor denounced navy officers in general, stirred all Newport today and led to a government investigation.

The inquiry is in charge of Admiral Henry T. Mayo, commanding the fleet, who has been off Newport for some time.

News of the distinctly incident first came today and caused something of a sensation.

How the Mayor's fist opened the cheek of Lieutenant Scott D. McCaughey of the battleship Vermont; how the local police were called on to eject the Mayor, but refused; how the officer struck the Mayor and how several United States seamen finally ejected the Mayor from the fleet patrol headquarters here, all go to make up a story which has set this city by its ears with curiosity and wonder now it will end.

DEMANDED INQUIRY.

It is understood the full report of the investigation will soon be placed in the hands of Secretary of the Navy Daniels at Washington.

It is stated here that Governor Beeckman of Providence was asked to take a hand, but the Governor's attitude is that he has no authority over any occurrence occurring within the city that could not have been controlled by the police.

However, officers of the fleet, who were interested, demanded a speedy inquiry and this was at once begun.

This is a summary of events in the new naval-naval sensation:

When the fleet makes port and the enlisted men have shore leave, it is customary to establish a shore patrol in charge of an officer as an aid to the local police.

When a seaman is found to be unduly "elated," he is sent on board his vessel by the shore patrol. The shore patrol and the Newport police heretofore have always worked in harmony. On Saturday afternoon came the first hitch.

A fireman attached to the United States ship Wyoming became noisy on Tanto street, and the shore patrol quickly took charge of him and arraigned him before Lieutenant McCaughey, then in command at fleet patrol headquarters. The fire engine house, a short distance away on the same street.

Mayor Boyle, a political fixture for eighteen years, heard of the arrest, and hurried to the patrol headquarters. There he is quoted as having denounced Lieutenant McCaughey in particular and the navy officers in general and as having announced that between a uniformed man and the police, he was strongly for the men.

The lieutenant tried to pacify the Mayor, but without success. Gathering the lieutenant was struck on the face and the blow opened his cheek, it is declared.

Two policemen were called upon to eject Mayor Boyle, but they refused to do so, saying he was the head of the police force. The same excuse was given by the firemen in the engine house.

CAMBRIDGE LADY SAYS NOW CURED

Mrs. Anna Riley of 167 Putnam Av. Relates How Plant Juice Gave Immediate Relief.

When the stomach performs its functions so perfectly that the possessor forgets that he has one, good health, physical powers and buoyant spirits prevail. The stomach, in civilized people of today, however, is degenerate. It lacks tone and strength gradually brought about by a sedentary existence. Too much food and too little exercise have forced the stomach into a half-sick condition. It becomes weak and does not protect itself, and the harm is done for the entrance of disease in many forms.

Plant Juice, the new herbal stomach remedy, is a purifying and a vitalizing agent. It corrects disorders of the stomach, which is being demonstrated daily and is verified by well known local people.

For instance, the signed testimonial of Mrs. Anna Riley, who lives at No. 167 Putnam avenue, Cambridge, Mass., and has many friends and acquaintances in this city, stated:

"For 12 years I suffered with my stomach, and could not digest my food at first. Finally the trouble became gas to form there and I was terribly bloated. I had palpitation of the heart, headaches, dizzy spells and I had lumps in the pit of my stomach. I could not sleep at night and got in a badly rundown condition. I was afraid to eat, when I got up in the morning as when I went to bed. I had terrible pains across my back and under my shoulder blades. I could hardly get around to do my housework. A friend told me of Plant Juice and I got a bottle to try it. It gave me immediate relief, and I can now eat all of my meals and enjoy them. I sleep fine, have no more aches or pains, and can truthfully say that I am entirely cured."

There are numerous symptoms of this trouble that Plant Juice can relieve. In fact, any one of the following may denote affections of the stomach; indigestion, dyspepsia, belching of wind, bad breath, sick, throbbing headaches, that tired feeling, night sweats, poor circulation, costiveness, coated tongue or a poor complexion.

The Plant Juice Man is at the Drug Department of Houghton & Dutton store, where he is daily meeting the local people and introducing and explaining the merits of this remedy.—Advertisement.

Sox Must Move Faster

Indians on Jump Again

By HERMAN NICKERSON.

The game at Fenway Park this afternoon is rather an important one aside from the fact that the Red Sox must get started soon or slip from the lead in the American League race. The Senators hold the Champions by one game in the series played this season, having won nine games to the Red Sox eight.

By winning today the Champions can even things up, and then it will rest to be seen how they come out when they meet in Washington.

Griffith's club has always been a hard one for the Sox to beat. There doesn't seem to be any explanation possible. On paper the Champs should clean up.

Manager Carrigan was not in command yesterday, having illness in his family, so there was nothing to his discredit that the boys put up such a slow article of ball. In almost every particular, however, when it came to making switches the time of action which would possibly have been Carrigan's, was followed. The defeat was more a case of poor pitching in what might be called an absence of pinch than through anything else, save the lack of the punch at the proper time.

Guessing the pitcher is a great sport. Here is one for today. The battery for Boston, Foster and Thomas; for Washington, Johnson and Ainsmith.

Foster should be in shape to stand the Senators on their heads. He has not been as effective as he was last season, but the indications are that he is rounding into form which will make it pretty fine for the club in the drive from now on.

FOSTER EARNEST WORKER.

Foster, when he is right and working as he did last season, is a man hard to beat. He is earnest and painstaking in all his efforts for the club and appreciates the fact that he has not been up to the mark. All of which will spur him on to more strenuous effort, if such a thing be possible.

Thomas has been back in the graces of the league for some days now and is anxious to show that the rest has done him good. Chet is a clever backstop and a pretty sure hitter. He can peg also, and is working for the club all the time both on and off the field.

Walter Johnson had a bad day on Saturday when he walked several plays and proved hittable. Still that is not saying that the great hurler isn't there. It will mean that if he is selected the Red Sox will find him working as he never worked before to stop them. In this "dope" on the possible pitchers it may be seen that there is fun for the "fans" this afternoon. Ainsmith, the battery partner of Johnson, is too well known to need comment either than to say that he is working in usual form this season.

FANS DISAPPOINTED.

The "fans" were somewhat disappointed at the outcome of the game yesterday, feeling that the club must make its long home stay tell for the reason that after it is over there is a long road trip for the champions, and figuring percentage this last which around the circuit will be the real test.

Any advantage possible during the home stay will come in very handy when the team hits the rollers over the west. There is nothing like playing before a friendly crowd to inspire the team to special effort, still, Monday is a bad day for the Red Sox or was this Monday.

As game from the Senators counts as much as a game from Cleveland or Chicago and as there is but one more to be had from the Griff crew at home it behooves the Red Sox to get busy and make Tuesday a fine day.

The team did not look particularly brilliant yesterday. They couldn't hit the ball in the pinches, and when the opportunity presented itself they fell down through poor base running and poor catching.

Defensively the boys put up a great game, and it has been this great work that has kept them up in the race more than their ability to go out and get the runs.

MUST START HITTING.

They may start hitting the ball soon, which is the essential thing. If they do there will be nothing to it. If they don't they will have to hustle harder than any team ever had to in order to meet the expectations of their following.

There isn't an injured man on the list and the pitchers seem to be in better shape than at any time this season. This should mean a run of victories. Now is the time for such a run, for with a good lead assured when the home stay is over the team is almost certain to repeat.

The crowd yesterday was pulling for a victory and its size demonstrated the interest in the club, for Monday, aside from being a bad day for the Red Sox, is also an off day in point of attendance in every city on either circuit.

Cleveland is getting too close for comfort, and with the White Sox due here tomorrow, being scheduled for a double-header, the Red Sox will have to move rapidly. This double bill Wednesday is also marked with the raising of the world championship pennant, at which ceremony Mayor Curley and other dignitaries will be present. There will be a regular band to add to the amusement of the fans. Those drum corps are in the nature of a jinx.

SOX HAVE BEST CHANCE.

The Red Sox look to have the best chance of any club in the league to win the flag, but the men must play the game for all it is worth and not take any chances any more in these games that are to come than they would in a game played in the World's Series.

President J. J. Lannin is the most confident owner in the league, which is the proper spirit. This should be shared by the men, but confidence which permits careless work is danger.

SOX NOTES

ALTROCK'S work before the game was enjoyed by the fans. Nick makes plenty of fun in his handling of the ball, which is appreciated. As one man remarked, "The kid is clever."

GRIFFITH changed his line-up a little, taking Williams off first, sending Shanks there, putting Janvrin in left.

DINNEEN'S work back of the plate was a wonderful improvement over Nallin's decision on Saturday.

THOMAS caught his first game since his return from Siberia. "Chet" is good, steady backstop.

GALLIA fanned on three pitched balls, all called, in the second.

THE first four Boston batters retired on fly balls. Walker broke the string, fanning.

THOMAS' peg to Barry getting Foster in the third, looked to have been late. Nallin called the runner out.

SCOTT made the first hit for Boston, a single over McBride's head, in the third.

THOMAS hit one on the seam in the fifth, but Morgan, who was a busy boy during the game, grabbed it.

"HOBBY" and Maye pulled a swell play on Foster in the sixth, and this was followed by Scott's play on Shaw, which was made an out by an inch.

THE sixth was also the first inning in which the Senators failed to register a hit.

JACK BARRY is a master of the art, and undoubtedly about the only man on the team who is sure in this important part of the game.

BOBBY ROTH IS SET DOWN

Cleveland, Aug. 15.—Outfielder Bobby Roth of the Indians has been indefinitely suspended by President Johnson of the American League for throwing a pop bottle at a spectator in last Saturday's game in St. Louis. Roth's home run in the ninth inning won Sunday's game for the Browns here.

"BABE" ADAMS TO JOIN DENVER CLUB

New York, Aug. 15.—"Babe" Adams, recently unconditionally released by the Pirates, is expected to join the Denver club in the Western League. Adams has been negotiating with Rebel Oakes, manager of Denver, and it is likely that "Babe" will soon don a uniform. Oakes, by the way, has been playing a fine game all season and is due for another trip to the majors.

J. DAUBERT MUST REST.

Brooklyn, Aug. 15.—Manager Robinson of the Dodgers fears that Captain Daubert is lost to the club for at least a week. He played in Saturday's double-header with the Braves against the advice of his physician and is now limping badly.

JACK CALVO NOW A TYGER

Vancouver, B. C., Aug. 15.—Jack Calvo, the Cuban outfielder, formerly of the Washington Senators, has been sold to the Detroit club.

GIANTS MAY LAND GIBSON OF PIRATES

Philadelphia, Aug. 15.—The Giants are likely to land Catcher Gibson of the Pirates in a few days. The Pittsburgh Club has asked for waivers on him and the New York club has put in a claim for him.

Gibson would fit in nicely just now, as Rariden probably will be out for at least three weeks.

Rudolph After Final Stallings Is Displeased

By JOHN W. MORAN, JR.

Brooklyn, Aug. 15.—Inasmuch as he still holds the managerial post, G. Tweedy Stallings deems it eminently fitting that his Braves land today's pastime from the Dodgers. Of course, being manager, he enjoys the right of selecting the pitcher to do the heavy work.

Yesterday Stallings crossed up all interested by sending George Tyler after the game. Early in the day he declared Dick Rudolph would work, but later when Tyler warmed up nicely he directed him to get into the box. Today Stallings will in all probability send Rudolph after the final game of the series.

It seems certain that either Rudolph or Barnes will get the job. The refund Robinson will probably rely on "Wheezer" Dell, with "Tube" Sheehan and Marquard laying back for the rescue honor.

Stallings wasn't exactly pleased this morning as he sipped his coffee at the Breslin Hotel over in New York and pondered over the happenings on Ebbets Field yesterday. To his way of thinking the game should have ended in Boston's favor, 2-1.

GAME IS TOSSED OFF.

It didn't, however, for the Williamsonian managed to garner five counters, thanks to some weird baseball, whereas the Braves total was two. Kicked away games have never left a sweet taste in Stallings' mouth.

Yesterday's pastime slipped out of our grasp in the second inning after Maranville had started off most impressively by clouting the agate into left field for a complete circuit of the station. It was this stunt "Rabbit" who started the rainstorm that spoiled the parade. "Ily" Myers shot one at him rather sharply. The "Rabbit" picked it up alright, and, though Konetchy's got some altitude, he didn't have enough to handle the throw. That one error paved the way.

OLSON GETS LUCKY HIT.

Tyler forced Mowrey to fly out to Magee, and then came Olson surrounded with horseshoes. Ivan shot one down at Maranville, which hopped up and hit him at the most inopportune moment. It went for a single, and when this Miller lammed one by Smith for one cushion, "Ily" counted.

Cheney smashed one back at Tyler, and, as Olson had a sizable lead off third, Tyler threw to Smith and got him. Then there were two out with two on and the stage set for the close of the inning.

The setting didn't stay, however, for Jimmie Johnston jammed one right straight at Egan. Dick booted with eclat and the pill raced on toward centrefield. Snodgrass felt confident Egan would field it, and, as a result, didn't start to back up until after the pill went through. As a result he just managed to get his hands close to it, and, by so doing, collected what the official scorer termed another boot.

The ball rolled to the wall and Johnston arrived over the plate just behind Miller and Cheney. These four runs were gifts, pure and simple, not one of them earned.

At this morning's skull session he had much to tell his sturdy young athletes, who tonight begin a two-days' barnstorming tour of northwestern New York, Ohio and Indiana. He digressed principally on the matter of kicking ball games right clean out of the won column. Needless to state the boys absorbed the Boss' words of wisdom and will make stringent effort to do differently when they clash with the Dodgers this afternoon.

One matter which made Stallings slightly more pleased than ordinarily after dropping a game is the fact that Tragressor is right once more. "Trag" was in there for a part of yesterday's game and looked mighty good.

GOWDY REMAINS ABSENTEE.

If it becomes necessary to send Blackburn back to Providence the club won't be so badly off, after all. There is nobody in the party who has any knowledge of Hank Gowdy's condition. It is expected, though, that he will be ready soon after the Western trip gets started.

Fitzpatrick is not ready to get into the game actively as yet and there is some question as to just when Evers will report. It had been assumed the Trojan would play in tomorrow's exhibition at Jamestown, N. T., but today there is an impression that he will not be there.

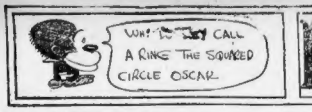
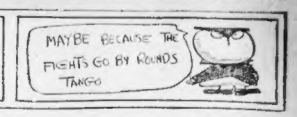
Tennis Players Are the Only Ones Who Complain When the Service Given Them Is Perfect



BOSTON AMERICAN SPORTS



NEWPORT AWAITS 'COMET'

McLoughlin, Clothier and Murray Expected to Join Tennis Colony Some Time Today.

Newport, R. I., Aug. 15.—Not a single upset marked the first round of the Casino invitation lawn tennis tournament, all the high ranking players winning as expected.

M. E. McLoughlin, the Californian "Comet," and W. J. Clothier, both former national champions, and R. Lindley Murray of California were expected to join the field today. If this crack trio shows up and competes, the tournament is bound to afford the gallery all the more interest.

Of the twenty-seven matches decided, twenty-five were in competition with only two defaults. Straight sets obtained in nearly every case.

The two Japanese players won without appreciable difficulty. I. Kumagae showed a strong game on the championship court against J. S. O'Neill of New York, while his compatriot, H. Mikami, won in straight sets also from J. W. Merrihew of New York.

The only approach to an upset during the day developed in the match between J. J. Armstrong, the young Philadelphian, who has played brilliantly in previous contests this season, and F. C. Baggs of New York. It was only after four sets that Armstrong won, Baggs winning a love set in the third scounter.

R. S. Watters of New Orleans, the Southern champion, was forced to show a high grade of tennis by H. A. Mackinney of Providen All four sets were hard fought and among the most interesting of the day.

The national champion, W. M. Johnston of San Francisco, and R. Norris Williams, 2d, of Philadelphia, had easy matches.

It is announced that Harold A. Throckmorton, the New York schoolboy, had displaced W. T. Tilden in the drawings and would play the veteran Richard Stevens today.

Framingham to Start Meeting Going Today

All is in readiness for the Short Trip Circuit race at South Framingham. The sport gets under way today with racing in the 2:18 and 2:29 trotting classes and 2:20 pace.

The 2:20 pace has at least half a dozen starters which are considered close together as. Judge Platt, Emma G., Alfred King, Monte Volo, Walter Cross and Cochato Direct. Judge Platt and Emma G. are both by Peter the Great, and, as the mare has had a three weeks' layoff, the may come back and display her excellent form of the early season.

The 2:20 pace has a large field carded to go. Leo Perrin, Pedro Patchen, Major Dean, Davenport Joe, Protector, Alley Patchen, Hollywood Jean, My Colonel, Beau Dewey, Peter Pan, Billy L. and Dorsey W. rounding out the eligibles.

The feature event will be the 2:18 trot. Atlas Bell, Junis Mace, Tidy Peter, Sir Todd II., Dolly Dixon, Emerald Direct, Nelda, Woodford Todd, Nelson Todd, Rose Baron and Prodigal Strong are a bunch of fast stepping and, with the track in good condition some fast miles are sure to be reeled off.

The free-for-all race, which is scheduled for Thursday, will bring together once more Our Colonel and the game old gray horse, Earl, Jr. Although Our Colonel defeated the "gray ghost" at Worcester last Saturday in fast time, there are many followers of the sport who believe Walter Cox's old pupil will reverse things when next they meet.

It was apparent that Earl, Jr., was a trifle short, as he had enjoyed a rest since the Springfield meet, fully a month back.

Betting Favors Dundee O'Leary Is Confident

By RINGSIDE.

On paper it is a corking good fistic entertainment outlined for the edification of the Armory A. A. members at the Arena tonight. The principals: Johnny Dundee of New York, the swiftest-stepping lightweight of them all, and Johnny O'Leary of far-away Seattle, Wash., holder of Canada's 135-pound title and winner over Ever Hammer, the doughty Chicago battler, upon the occasion of his last start, here in Boston, exactly two weeks ago.

Dundee and O'Leary are programmed to step the usual twelve rounds, and it is pretty well understood that their respective handlers, Scotty Monteith and Darb Kelly, will not object to the Triple-A's leading referee, the efficient Larry Conley. If they do, some of the eclat of the evening will be lost. What's more, both gents will be kicking themselves when the show is over.

The encounter should please. There's no mistaking Dundee's all-around class, while O'Leary has battled valiantly with Hon. Freddie Welsh, Jimmy Duffy and a lot of other top-liners in Buffalo and elsewhere, and his performance against Hammer was altogether too good for him to be rated any Rush-in-the-pan.

PAIR OF TIDY BATTLERS.

What's more, neither Dundee nor O'Leary belongs to the Mail Club. Then, too, both are bona fide members of the lightweight class. Even the original limit of the division, 133 pounds, is a snap for the nifty New Yorker. As for O'Leary, he can make 135 pounds without the slightest bit of trouble.

The class of the show is Dundee. That's because the Scotch-Wop doesn't really have to bow to any boxer living in a twelve-round bout.

He's a wonderful worker, a particularly fast stepper, and extremely hard to reach. Dundee is one of the Queensberry game's will-o'-the-wisps; in fact, he's the old original prize package.

O'Leary is a combination battler-boxer, and a corking good one, too, judged by his recent performance with Hammer. He's already been to the mat twice with Dundee and claims he learned enough about the Monteith entrant's style that night to enable him to get to him this time and land the victor.

HAD IT OUT IN BUFFALO.

It was in Buffalo, some eight or ten weeks ago, when Dundee and O'Leary squared off. The bout followed the one Dundee fought here the second time. They were booked to battle a few weeks ago, but Chakas showed up considerable over-weight and there was nothing doing. There won't be any slip-up tonight, states Joe McCarthy, Donovan's manager.

The boys in the two six-rounders will be Johnny Downes and Young Bushy and "Kid" Lee and Tony Vatian.

ARMORY A. A. PROGRAM.

"Kid" Lee vs. Tony Vatian, six rounds.

draw was fought that's how their combat ended.

Confidence reigns supreme in the O'Leary camp. The Seattle Flash cannot see how he can lose, neither does Kelly. Both claim they are in town prepared to gamble high on the result, so naturally the pudgier the odds the happier they will be.

Ever since the "hook" opened on the scrap, Dundee has been the favorite.

BUNDEE BETTING PICK.

There must be a tremendous play on O'Leary for the odds to shift to even money; in fact, the indications are that Dundee will rule a stealing hot choice, maybe as tight as 2 to 1, at post-time.

Johnny Donovan, the promising South Boston boy, a rattling, heady little gloveman, who big fair to come through a mighty handy ringster, goes on with Young Chakas in with Matt Wells, being put on the very next night. The bulk of the Buffalo critics gave Dundee full credit with having shaded O'Leary. But O'Leary thinks otherwise. He has claimed ever since, and his claim has been backed up by Manager Kelly, that he was right there with Dundee all the way, and that if ever a

Zbyszko Explains to Court How Soft He Is

New York, Aug. 15.—Wladek Zbyszko, the wrestler, who can crack a man's bones with his hands, confessed to Magistrate Frothingham in Jefferson Market Court that he was no match for the plausible person from whom he was anxious to recover a $700 diamond ring.

It was on March 28, the strong man told the court, that he disrobed for practice in an uptown gymnasium and handed his ring for safekeeping to one of the bystanders.

Friend and ring were gone when Zbyszko finished his practice, but he met the man next day and asked for the ring.

"I wouldn't dare to carry such a valuable stone with me, so I left it safely at home," explained Mr. Plausible.

Always he promised to produce it tomorrow, and always he vowed that the ring was just as safe with him as it would be on its owner's massive finger. At length the patient wrestler recognized his jewel in a pawnshop window.

To save the soft-hearted giant from further imposition, the court assigned a policeman to help him recover his ring.

Ouimet to Take Part in Press Club Tourney

Francis Ouimet, former holder of the national open and amateur golf championships, will play in his first golf championship of the season next week, when the Boston Press Club's annual invitation competition will be held on the course of the Wollaston Golf Club at Montclair.

The principal prize of the Press Club affair will be the Chas. H. Taylor trophy, which must be won three times to become the permanent property of any golfer. This big cup has been won twice by Frank H. Hoyt, who is coming over from New York to get his third and last leg on the same.

Arthur H. Goodale of Wollaston, Rodney W. Brown of the Country Club, and Jesse P. Guilford of Woodland, have each captured one leg during the competition for this trophy, which is one of the most valuable offered in Eastern golf circles.

In this tournament, which begins Monday with qualifying round, the 16 lowest gross scores will qualify for match play. They will be divided into flights of 16 each; in the first or championship division, the golfers will play without handicaps, but in the second and third flights three-fourths of the difference in handicaps will be allowed.

The tournament will be run practically under the same conditions as other years, being open to members of professions, players from the Woodland, Belmont Springs and Wollaston Golf Clubs, upon whose courses previous Press tournaments have been held, holders of degrees from universities and colleges, and those invited by members of the committee. An entrance fee of $1 will be charged.

THE boy at my side gasped out his amazement and joy:

"Miss Fairfax! Say, you're a regular miracle worker. Nobody but you would ever have been here just when a fellow wanted her. And say, you're kinder pretty—most as pretty as my Jean!"

Dear, gallant, little soul! What woman in all the world wouldn't have liked the tribute of his grateful admiration?

The car ahead of us slowed down, driving a tortuous course in and out of crossroads. As we followed I got Billie's story from him. If I were to help him in this mysterious chase which seemed so desperately earnest to the boy I had to know exactly why I was driving up and down Westchester County after a strange limousine.

"Well, I never saw Jean till yesterday. But I knew she was my girl right away. I never noticed girls much before. I've been too busy bringing myself up. But Jean—she was different all right. I knew; you understand how it is with a fellow. You don't think I'm a softy? Do you?"

"No, I don't, Billie—not a bit of it. Every boy has to have a dream-lady—an ideal to work for. And some day when you grow up and fall in love with a grown-up woman you'll bring her a finer man because the little boy you are today made up a dream about a little girl named Jean. Do you know just what I'm talking about Billie?"

"No'm, not 'zactly. But I guess you get me all right. I liked Jean right off—but I didn't like the mystery I kinder felt."

Billie Tells the Story

Of course I know boys have a way of making up mysteries and detective stories for themselves—but Billie seemed so earnest, so sincere, that I sensed a basis for his feeling.

"Come on, Billie. Tell me all about it."

"Yes'm. It was like this. They gives me a telegram this morning over to the office—excuse me, over at the office—and sends me—sent me—up to Richard Morton's house. He's the District Attorney, and the boys all say he's a very honest guy—man."

Billie blushed ingenuously as he corrected his English and brought it nearer his standard of correctness for a conversation with a grownup lady.

"Never mind the slang, Billie boy. We'll be careful with our English later on, but now let's have the story."

"Yes'm. Well, when I get to the Morton house they tell me to come in and wait to see if there's an answer. And while I'm out in the hall the prettiest little girl you ever seen came out. She shook hands with me as polite as you please and asked me to sit down just as if I was a gentleman instead of a telegraph messenger.

"No other girl had ever treated me like that before, and her being so pretty and all—it just got me—got me where I live. I knew it was love at first sight all right. I got to grow up and be the president of the Western Union and marry that girl!

A Fine Little Visit

"Well, Jean—that was her name, she told me—Jean seemed to like me, too. We had a lovely time for a minute or so, and then the lady with a face that looked like someone had carved it out of a piece of steel came out and took her away. She didn't want to go, either—any more than I wanted to have her.

"So I went across the road and sat down on the curbstone. I thought maybe she'd come to a window and wave to me—and she did. And then the lady with the face all carved out of a piece of steel came and took her away. And I sat on the curb and made up a romance—want to hear it?"

"Yes, Billie, I'd like to hear it."

"Well, ma'm—all of a sudden the house changed into a castle with a moat and a drawbridge and portcullis and everything just like in 'Pauline.' And I rode up on my charger and—an' Jean came to the window an' waved a handkerchief to me an' threw it over. An' this is what the lady in distress sent me for a message: 'Oh, fair knight, save me from my enemies.'

The governess of the Morton child, Mme. Laurette, pays a visit

No Other Way Out

"An' then, of course, I had to go save her. So I dashed over the drawbridge and into the courtyard of the castle. An' the men-at-arms came dashing forward, but single-handed I swept them aside and fought my way to the doorway. An' that steel-faced lady was there—all over steel, in shining armor and things.

"Well, I swung Jean to the saddle behind me and fought my way back to the bridge, an' there was an enormous warrior armed with a club. An' then I woke up an' a policeman was standing there an' waving his club at me an' grinning. So I got up a' went back to the office, an' I felt kind of ashamed."

The boy stopped his confidences abruptly.

"Say, Miss Fairfax, do you think I'm a poor nut?"

But I didn't think he was a poor nut. Do you? For which of us has not in childhood made up romances and stories more strange and wonderful than any that ever was prisoned between the covers of a book?

It was youth that had made Billie dream—and I was proud of the sympathy in my heart which had made it possible for me to win his confidence and hear the story.

"But, Billie, there's more to your story. I think it was after your dream that you went down to the office and wrote to me. But then what? Why are we following that limousine? That's the part of the story I have to know."

"Yes'm, I'm coming to that. Well, then after I spoke to you I went back to practicing the Morse alphabet, but I was thinking about Jean all the time. I just had to go back to her house and try to see her again. I got a message to do liver up in the neighborhood that afternoon and then I went over and hid behind a tree, kind of hoping Jean would come out and I could see her. Love does get a fellow like that."

And I, who love boys, found Billie very wistful and sweet and not at all silly. Love is the most beautiful thing in the world, and if a clean devotion comes to a boy's heart I don't believe in laughing at it.

"I was thinking how hard I'd have to work to be worthy of her, and how I'd study and study till I grew up to be the kind of a man a girl like Jean could marry—and all of a sudden while I was standing there dreaming up the street comes a limousine.

"I could see two men in it. One kind of looked like the chap that was shaking his club at me in my dream—and the other had smoked glasses on. The smoked glass one got out and the Big Warrior stayed in the car.

"I saw that the one in smoked glasses was blind. He came tap-tapping along the sidewalk feeling his way with his cane like he was trying to get somewhere. I thought I ought to come out and help him, an then I thought maybe he'd be sensitive about having a boy notice his trouble. So I stayed still a minute, thinking.

A Tapping on the Pane

"And then, all of a sudden, from Jean's house I heard a funny clicking sound. I looked up and there was the steel-faced lady rapping away on the window pane. And that blind man knocking on the sidewalk with his cane was doing something that sounded to me kind of funny—like the Morse code.

"Without thinking much about it I got out my notebook and pencil and began to write. It just wrote itself—kind of—and this was what it said: 'Drive north on Sullivan road.'

"There was some more tapping from the house. The steel-faced lady' was using a pencil on the pane. Pretty soon the blind man seemed to get his bearings and went back to the limousine. It stood there still—like it was waiting.

"Say, Miss Fairfax, I sensed a mystery all right—and you look like you did, too."

"Billie," said I, "you're a wonderful little pantomimer. And if some day you know what that means, it will be when the magazines are paying you five cents a word for your stories."

"Yes'm," said Billie. "There was a mystery—that's why we're following that Big Warrior's car."

A Girl and a Man

By Virginia Terhune Van de Water

CHAPTER XVIII.

Copyright, 1916, by the Star Company.

At a few minutes past 12 that noon Agnes was summoned to the telephone. She recognized Mr. Hale's voice on the wire.

"Miss Morley," he said, "I have been detained, so will not come to lunch this afternoon. Get your luncheon and be ready to report for work by a quarter of two."

"Yes, sir," she replied.

"And, by the way," her employer added, "kindly tell Mr. Philip Hale that I wish him to attend to those two matters I spoke to him about this morning before returning to the office after his lunch. Will you remember to do that?"

"Yes, sir," she repeated, "I will remember."

Her heart beat as she thought of addressing Philip in the office before the other clerks. Yet, had he been a total stranger to her, she would not have minded doing it. She must try to think of him as a stranger.

Going into the outer office she started across the room, but was waylaid by Annie Rooney, who was waiting for her, hat on and evidently in a hurry.

"Come along," Annie said. "I'm starved and I want a chance to fill up before I have to get back."

"I will be with you in a minute," Agnes responded. "I have a message from Mr. Hale to his son. I must deliver it."

She did not pause for Annie's comment, but went directly to where Philip Hale sat in his railed enclosure. At the sound of her step he looked up, then rose to his feet, his face bright with smiles. But she did not smile.

THE MESSAGE DELIVERED

"Mr. Hale," she said in a voice that could be heard by Miss Burkes, who had risen from her desk preparatory to going to lunch, "your father, has just telephoned a message which he asked me to deliver."

She repeated her employer's directions and turned away. But Philip's low "Agnes!" made her stop.

"Can't we lunch together?" he pleaded, so softly that she scarcely heard him.

"No; and don't look at me like that," she muttered. "You are spoiling everything." Then, louder, "I will tell him when he comes in that you will attend to the matter."

Her face had not changed during the brief interview, yet she felt as if it might betray the conflict raging within her. She longed to speak alone with Philip, yet dared not to so. And if she did not warn him he might cause gossip in the office by his expression and way of looking at her.

"I will be with you in an instant," she said in a manner as she hurried to the closet for her hat and jacket.

The elevator was just about to leave their floor when the two girls stepped out into the hall and, seeing them, the operator waited. As they entered, Agnes was aware that one of the passengers was Philip Hale. He had entered a moment before them.

She did not look at him, but she knew that Annie Rooney did. She also knew that he had removed his hat, and that he, of all the men in the car, was the only one who observed. This was not customary in an office building, she reflected. Probably only he would have worn a hat on had she not been present.

He turned up the street, the girls down. They were scarcely out of earshot before Annie gave vent to the comments in her mind.

"Gee!" she exclaimed. "Some class to him! I say, did you get on to the way he looked at you when you gave him the old man's message? I'll bet almost anything he'll call for a minute that you'd met him before. But you hadn't, had you?"

AN EXPLANATION

"His father introduced me—that is, mentioned my name to his son, the first day I was in his employ," Agnes told her.

This was the second time today she had regretted that statement. She congratulated herself on having this truthful sentence with which to explain Philip's manner toward her.

"Well, I guess he thinks you're pretty, all right," Annie rejoined. "I've told you before that you'd be a stunner if you'd only dress up more. But your things are too simple."

Agnes said nothing, and her companion returned to the subject that was uppermost in her mind.

"Yes, that Philip Hale is sure a pippin! Did you see how he took off his hat in the elevator? There's precious few that would take the trouble to do that in an elevator full of working girls."

"It is entirely unnecessary anyway," Agnes remarked curtly.

"Unnecessary? Why of course it is. But so is it unnecessary for a man to tip his hat to you. But it's nice."

"That's different," Agnes declared. "It is not expected that a man remove his hat in an elevator in a big office building. If women go there, they must expect to be treated as men are. In a hotel, or an apartment house, it is an entirely different matter."

She did not know that her tone was sharp and terse until Annie's questioning gaze brought her to a realization that she was speaking excitedly.

"Well, you certainly do resent a small politeness," the girl commented. "Anyone would think to hear you talk that you thought young Hale was trying to get fresh with you. But, kid, I guess you're wrong there. He don't seem like that sort. And I don't believe he is—now, do you, really?"

"No," said Agnes, more gently, "I do not for a moment suppose that he is. I may have spoken crossly just now; but I am tired and hungry."

Is Your New Hat on Straight?

Perhaps it should not be. You will know certainly after you have read Lady Duff Gordon's "Fall Fashions from Paris" in next Sunday's Boston AMERICAN.

Good Housekeeping Recipes

Good food properly cooked goes far toward insuring health and long years. As much depends on the cooking, however, as on the food itself. The following recipes have been tested and approved by Good Housekeeping Institute, conducted by GOOD HOUSEKEEPING, and are republished here by special arrangement with that publication, the Nation's Greatest Home Magazine.

All measurements are level, standard half-pint measuring cups, tablespoons, and teaspoons being used. Sixteen level tablespoonfuls equal a half-pint. Quantities are sufficient for six people unless otherwise stated. Flour is sifted once before measuring.

German Spinach

One quarter peck spinach, 2 bunches scallions or 1 small onion, 4 slices bacon, 1 tablespoonful flour, 1 tablespoonful fine bread crumbs, few grains nutmeg, 1 hard-cooked egg. Wash the spinach thoroughly, and a teaspoonful of salt, and boil it gently for fifteen minutes without adding any water. Then chop very fine. Dice the bacon, fry it, and mix with the spinach. Cut the scallions, both white and green parts, into bits and fry in the bacon fat. Add to the spinach. Put the crumbs and flour into the remaining fat, cook until brown, pour over the spinach, adding a cupful of water and a grating of nutmeg. Let boil up and serve garnished with the hard-cooked egg.

Russian Pudding

Two tablespoonfuls granulated gelatine, 1 quart milk, 4 eggs, 1 cupful sugar, 1 teaspoonful vanilla, 1 dozen dry macaroons. Put gelatin and milk together in a double boiler and let stand over a slow heat until the gelatin is dissolved. Beat the egg yolks and sugar together, combine with the milk, and let cook until a coating is formed on the spoon. Stir this mixture into the egg whites beaten stiff and add the vanilla. Line a mould with the macaroons broken in bits and when the pudding mixture is slightly cooled pour it into the mould. Chill for a few hours until stiff, unmold and serve with whipped cream.

Bowen Icing

Two cupfuls sugar, 1 cupful water, 1 teaspoonful baking powder, 4 egg whites.

Boil the sugar and water together for a few minutes. In the meantime whip the egg whites until dry and ragged. Pour in a little of the syrup, whipping constantly. Return remaining syrup to the fire and cook until it barely threads. Then whip this syrup into the egg white mixtures and when it all is in place the pan over hot water to steam. Add the baking-powder, lifting up the mixture from the sides and bottom without further beating. Cook until the mixture will form in points when it is lifted up. It may then be used for fluting and the making of orchids.

The Biography of a Sinner

I laughed hysterically. None of what Father had told me meant anything to me then—the revelation of his own warped and twisted love for us seemed to me then only a revelation of malign hatred and misunderstanding. If I had been able to understand—to say the right thing—it might have made a great difference even then. Instead I sneered with a desperation that amounted to insanity.

"Oh! You think I'm too good to live under the same roof with Rex! You feel that he has contaminated me. Well, you never understood Rex or judged him fairly. Now you can go back alone. I'll not go with you at all. You think I am better than Rex. Now listen: I had made all my plans, and tomorrow I was going away with a man—who is married."

Father rushed to my side and seized my wrist in gripping fingers. "Vera, are you insane?"

"I was never more sane in my life. When I was a child I was afraid of you—then I came to hate you. Now, Father, I only despise you utterly. You say you were afraid Rex and I were going to inherit the Sheldon weakness. Well, maybe we have, but I am worse than he. Rex would have stood by me and I am going to stand by him now."

It was all very grandiloquent and melodramatic, I suppose. But the first decent, clean emotion I had known in a year was that resurgence of my love for Rex sung before I had any realization of the cause for his crime.

Rex had stood by me more loyally than I guessed.

It was not until Tuesday morning that Jim succeeded in hiding Rex out of jail, and even then he was successful because he had reached Geoff Harding by telegraph, and Geoff had returned to help him.

Rex came back to us with a look of defeat in his dear eyes. It hurt me terribly. But when he found that father had come to take me home, that look changed to one of elation. "It was worth it, after all. And I began to puzzle out bits of evidence which led me to a strange conclusion.

THE REASON WHY

I remembered how soon after the cruel knowledge that I loved a married man came to him, Rex had begun to prosper. His prospects had meant pretty clothes and travel and society for me. For Rex it had meant nothing but work—never more work. Had Rex taken that money to get me what he knew I craved? Was it love Jim and he really loves me.

"When he found out that I had gone to Fleuriette's the very weekend you were arrested, he knew that he had refused me the one help I need to put me out of his life, and that I would have gone on when you tried to put other things in my life.

"You're the two finest men I know, but you couldn't save me, Rex. I was going away with Jim. I have been the naive fool in a gay crowd all this Winter—drinking and gambling and Billing my life with cheap things. And Jim was going to take me away to save me from all that. What did save me was finding out—about you."

A CONFESSION

Then suddenly Rex and I were sobbing in each other's arms. He couldn't lie to me, for I knew. To keep me from going over the edge of the precipice he himself had gallantly gone over.

I went to father with the story. "We've all failed, father—but Rex's failure wasn't selfishness or weakness or any of the profligate traits you hate so in the Sheldons. It was love for me. So never be hard-never felt was getting a square deal."

Rex used to protect me from you when I was a little frightened little kiddie.

"He lied to you for me and got a distorted sense of honor, a false sense of values. Can't you see that? And so he tried to protect me from life by the same dishonest methods he had always been compelled to use to protect me from you."

Suddenly something in father broke. It was absolutely rotting by and watching him. His pain in his sorrow he was hard and selfish. That was a part of his nature. He couldn't help it. I saw that suddenly, and, while I did not like it, I knew that I had no right to judge it. What hurt father was that after all his efforts, he had failed with us both.

To Be Continued Tomorrow.

Why Society Women Wash Their Own Hair

Few realize how many society women now wash their own hair, not because it is a fad, but because they wish to obtain the greatest possible hair beauty and be sure they are not using anything harmful. The thousands who have found that in washing the hair it is never wise to use a makeshift, but is always advisable to use a preparation made for shampooing only, say they get the best results from a simple home-made canthrox mixture. You can enjoy this, the best that is known, for almost three cents a shampoo by getting some canthrox from your druggist, and dissolving a teaspoonful in a cup of hot water. Your shampoo is now ready. After its use the hair dries rapidly with uniform color. Dandruff, excess oil and dirt are dissolved and entirely disappear. Your hair will be so fluffy that it will look much heavier than it is. Its lustre and softness will also delight you, while the stimulated scalp gains the health which insures hair growth.—Advertisement.

In Our Wonderful World

The cleverness of some plants is indisputable. A sundew, or flycatcher, deceived by a piece of chalk, seized it in its tendrils, but upon discovering the fraud immediately withdrew them. A fly, held just out of its reach, did not tempt it to move, but as soon as it was brought a little nearer the plant prepared to take possession of it. Darwin showed that a pinguicula had a habit of secreting for a hole to insert its tendrils into, and even of withdrawing the tendril to insert it in another hole, if the first proved unsuitable.

Nor is this power of selecting confined to any particular class. Climbers like the ivies will refuse to coil round a branch not strong enough to bear its weight.

It was on Saturday, May 4, 1833, that there occurred an accident which gave us the engine whistle. It was on the level crossing between Tingewick and Thornton, in England, that Driver Weatherburn drove the seven o'clock express of sixteen coaches filled with fifty pounds of butter and eighty dozen eggs. The engine-driver was annoyed by the passengers' suggestion of a whistle which steam could blow was admitted. He went at once to a musical instrument maker in Leicester, who constructed a "steam trumpet." Seven ten days later was tried in the presence of the board of directors. In appearance it was like a huntsman's horn, eighteen inches long and six inches across the top.

The war in Europe has killed the business of catching and selling leeches. France used to be the greatest market for these blood-sucking worms, but in recent years most of them have come from Hungary, Croatia, Dalmatia and Turkey. The demand in Germany, Austria and England now leeches can no longer be shipped from these places, and England is getting leeches from India. At the same time the doctors are using more modern methods of drawing blood from inflamed parts of the body.

Precaution

"Is it, really?"

"I should say so. Why, I've heard that whenever he takes a bath he stops up all the holes in the sponge for fear of draught."

Used Resinol for Bad Skin Trouble
Considers Her Cure Remarkable

June 25.—"For almost six months I suffered from a severe case of skin trouble on my face, between the ankle and knee. It began by swelling, with severe pains day and night, followed by constant itching. My leg then became inflamed and later water blisters and pimply sores broke out on it. At this time my leg was at least one-third above its normal size and the continual itching and burning sensation was something terrible. I applied many remedies, but gained no relief until I commenced using Resinol Ointment and Resinol Soap. From the first I noticed relief by the first application. After a continued use of Resinol Ointment and Resinol Soap the swelling was reduced, the itching and burning were entirely relieved and a complete cure was effected, having used only three jars of Resinol Ointment and two cakes of Resinol Soap. My trouble sure was serious, and I consider the cure remarkable." Signed; Mrs. H. W. Neffus, 275 Pearson St., Shelbyboro, N. C. All druggists sell Resinol Ointment and Resinol Soap. For samples, free, write to Dept. 4-S, Resinol, Baltimore.—Advertisement.

Hairs Will Vanish After This Treatment

(Toilet Helps)

You can keep your skin free from hair or fuzz by the occasional use of plain delatone and in using it you need have no fear of marring or injuring the skin. A thick paste is made by mixing some of the powdered delatone with water. Then spread on the hairs and after 2 or 3 minutes rub off, wash the skin and all traces of hair have vanished. Be careful, however, to get real delatone.—Advertisement.

BAY STATE BOYS FIRED UPON BY SNIPERS

By BERT FORD.

Second Massachusetts Brigade Headquarters, El Paso, Tex., Aug. 15.—Captain Chester E. Staten, of H Company of Salem, Eighth Massachusetts Infantry, and Sergeant C. H. Crowell and Private Philip R. Smith were fired upon by Mexican snipers near Eucalyptus avenue, but the bullets passed wide.

An official report of the sniping was forwarded to General E. LeRoy Sweetser.

Sniping from the "Island," where the Rio Grande shapes a delta, had ceased for days owing to the stiff volleys sent in returns by Ninth Regiment outposts. Renewal of activities in that quarter Monday occasioned surprise. As the Eighth outposts could not determine the source of the firing they did not shoot back.

SOLDIERS DROP FLAT.

The affair happened after noon mess. Sergeant Crowell, who lives on Pearl street, Lynn, and Private Smith, of No. 10 Chestnut street, Beverly, were standing when three shots rang out and they dropped on their stomachs.

Captain Staten reported the shooting to Colonel Frank A. Graves, who sent Major William J. Keville to investigate.

An extra guard was stationed at the spot, consisting of Corporal H. A. Turgeon and Privates George A. Call and John T. Stuart of Salem, and Private Edward Brait of Beverly. Top Sergeant Leo P. Murphy was put in charge of Cossack outposts. All are sharpshooters.

FIRE ON STATEN.

An hour later, while Captain Staten was scrutinizing the other side of the river with field glasses, watching a boy, who seemed to be signaling with a newspaper, and men who crouched behind bushes, another shot was fired by a concealed Mexican and the bullet struck the water some distance in front of Captain Staten, who jumped behind a tree.

Outposts at this point of all the Bay State infantry regiments have been harassed by snipers. It was close to this spot on the Felix Martinez estate that L Company of the Ninth, from Natick, had a daylight skirmish with fifteen horsemen and killed two.

These promotions were made yesterday in L Company of the Fifth of Malden, to sergeants: Corporals Robert H. Perkins and Ernest R. Davis; to corporals: Privates Clifford Dartt and George A. Leslie.

Captain Henry D. Cormerais of Newton has been appointed chief instructor of the Fifth Regiment School for non-commissioned officers which meets thrice weekly.

DISCHARGES SOUGHT.

W. J. Jordan, quartermaster sergeant, H Company of the Eighth, and living at No. 471 Vane street, Revere, was the first man in the brigade to file papers for discharge because of dependents at home.

Sergeant William H. Barter of the Winthrop Machine Gun Company and a Boston lawyer, has also applied for honorable discharge under the dependent's clause.

Sergeant Thomas J. Nolan of the Massachusetts Field Hospital and an orderly at the Boston City Hospital, has applied for discharge to support a mother, wife and two children. Major Woodsworth has consented to Nolan's release.

CANTEEN MAKES MONEY.

Major Woodsworth announced today that the field hospital canteen is making between $2,500 and $2,600 a month. He has devised a plan by which surplus funds from the canteen will be divided among the men of his corps when they return to Boston.

Captain William W. Bassett of the Massachusetts Ambulance Company, who lives at No. 600 Western avenue, Lynn, received a mysterious package the other day. In it he found a pink frosted birthday cake from his son, Leonard, Jr., who celebrated his fourth birthday by entertaining the boys and girls of his acquaintance, and Leonard sent part of the banquet to Daddy, 2,639 miles away. Captain Bassett thinks so much of it that he will not share it with Captain Keenan and the other officers of the Medical Corps. He is saving it as a souvenir and wishes Leonard was near enough to hug.

The Eighth Regiment dramatic troupe presented "Held by the Enemy" before a large audience last night.

CARRANZA TROOPS EXECUTE BANDITS

El Paso, Tex., Aug. 14.—Revolutionists are being executed in wholesale lots throughout Mexico, according to reports to American military authorities. Twenty have gone down before firing squads in Juarez within the past three days. Twenty-one more have been shot in Chihuahua City and similar numbers in Mexico City and San Luis Potosi. Thus Carranza hopes to stamp out the latest movement in Mexico to overthrow his government.

ROBERT BACON IS SENATE CANDIDATE

New York, Aug. 15.—William M. Calder's chances for a unanimous Republican nomination for United States Senator were jeopardized by the announcement that Robert Bacon, former Ambassador to France, is to enter the field with the support of Colonel Roosevelt. The Democratic nomination and election of William F. McCombs may be made the easier by the withdrawal of Thomas F. Conway and the retirement of Bainbridge Colby and the Progressive candidate.

BIDS OPENED FOR PAVING STREETS

R. E. Grant, with a bid of $362,264.76, was found to be the low man when the various contractors' figures for paving eighteen streets with granite block were opened at the office of the Commissioner of Public Works yesterday.

The majority of the streets are in the downtown districts.

DEMAND JUSTICE IN SOKOL CASE

street station which were indicted prior to the Sokol incident.

The testimony of the volunteer witnesses who have come forward of their own accord, has to do, according to Attorney Schurton, particularly with Patrolmen Morgan and Donnelly.

"This thing has started an avalanche," exclaimed Schurton today. "I guess this Sokol case is the thing the West End has been waiting for. If witnesses come forward any faster, there will be necessity of a shakedown, before this incident is ended."

The letter sent by Mr. Schurton to Police Commissioner O'Meara follows:

LETTER TO O'MEARA.

August 14, 1916.

Mr. Stephen O'Meara,

Police Commissioner, City of Boston, Pemberton square.

My dear Mr. O'Meara:—I desire to call your attention to an assault upon one David Sokol of No. 24 Stanford street, Boston, who, on the afternoon of August 10, 1916, was inhumanly treated by Patrolmen Elam W. Morgan and Owen J. Donnelly of the Joy street station while in his own home, and in no way resisting the officers.

The daily papers contain a full account of the incident as well as a rehearsal of the circumstances which preceded it. Mr. Sokol is not unknown to the police, having had several experiences in the West End during his residence in that section of the city. It was Sokol who, with members of his family, testified in Municipal Court many times for protection in the trial of one Abraham Lischkick on May 25th last.

I am in no way interested in what preceded the assault of Sokol, and my one reason for asking you to investigate the incident is to secure fair play. I am in possession of affidavits from nearly a dozen eye witnesses who saw Sokol cruelly beaten at the hands of Patrolmen Morgan and Donnelly.

In view of these facts I believe it is fair to assume that these men either have a misconceived idea of their duty or are entirely unfit for their position. Under the circumstances I request that you investigate the matter and I shall place the above mentioned witnesses at your disposal.

ASKS FOR FAIR TREATMENT.

I believe that a police officer's primary duty is to protect the community (not to perpetrate outrages upon its members), to fully understand the sanctity of a man's home, to fully realize that it cannot be violated by any person acting even under the color of the law, to assist in bringing offenders to justice, but to recognize that even these unfortunates are human and have rights which even a police officer is bound to respect, to use discretion, mercy, and, above all, plain common sense.

Officers Donnelly and Morgan seem to possess none of these qualifications, and I ask you, in fairness and justice not only to Sokol, but for the sake of the community and for the overwhelming number of police officers whose good names and reputations are desecrated by men of the Donnelly type, to investigate.

Knowing how eminently fair you are, I trust you will act favorably upon this request.

Very truly yours,

WILLIAM H. SCHARTON.

P. S.—If you have no jurisdiction in the matter would you kindly refer this to Superintendent Crowley for his attention?

DECLINES TO INTERFERE.

When seen in his office today, Commissioner O'Meara was asked by the AMERICAN what he intended to do about the charges against Morgan and Donnelly. He replied:

"Why do you come to me with such a question? The man to ask such a question of is Superintendent Crowley. I have no jurisdiction in the matter. That is for Mr. Crowley to answer."

Superintendent of Police Crowley, when asked the same question replied: "I have nothing to say about the situation. I think the proper thing to do would be to wait until after the hearing. This is a matter for the courts to pass upon now."

Meanwhile, David Sokol is at the City Hospital with three broken ribs, nine stitches in his scalp, and suffering from multiple contusions and bruises, sustained at the time of his arrest on August 10.

BET STARTED RUN ON ILLINOIS BANK

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 15.—One million dollars in cash, piled high on the counter, halted a serious run on the Illinois State Bank at East St. Louis, which was started by a freak bet made by a stranger in a saloon.

The stranger wagered on Saturday with a friend that he could start a run on the bank by the next morning.

In the morning a long line of excited depositors and some man had telephoned them that the bank was shaky.

Baseball Isn't a Missile, Court Rules; Girls Free

JUDGE SAMUEL R. CUTLER of Chelsea Court rules that "a baseball is not a missile." On this ruling he finds that Miss Blanche A. Levy, twenty-one, and her sister, Sylvia, twenty-two, both of Worcester, are not guilty of throwing missiles at Revere Beach last Sunday, as charged by the Metropolitan Park Police.

The police brought sixteen persons into court for throwing baseballs or stones after beach patrons had complained of being hit.

September Cosmopolitan

Jack London tells how that most debonnair of monarchs, Kalakaua of Hawaii, once dropped in upon the Mikado after supper—what was a little thing like court formality between kings? If matters had turned out as he hoped, history would be writing new pages in the Pacific.

But since "Aloha" means love, you can sense that politics play small part in this particular reminiscence.

Suppose you met a girl and didn't know that she was loaded—with millions—until you lost your heart and she found rubies to her fancy at $40,000 per each? Gouverneur Morris suggests how you ought to feel, in "The Hoard," a bit of fairy gossamer stretching through Ceylon and the reaches of the musky Orient.

Penrod, for a change, engages in a little animal Barbanking. As time goes on so does suspicion concerning the verity of a certain youngster whose real name may or may not have been Tarkington.

Then, of course, there's a touch of philosophy. Masterlinck, with his Belgian lineage and French soul, senses a sublime and surprising end to the Gargantuan carnage sweeping the old world. "The Will of Earth" is a gem for future anthologies.

But there's humor too in THIS GREAT NUMBER: Wallingford suddenly discovers that he has overlooked the cigar business and proceeds to make life interesting in another unwary village. "The Trufflers" appear once more! Have you followed Merwin's delicious satires on New York Bo-he-he-mia?

George Ade's latest fable enriches the vernacular with another access of vivid slang—it's an exceedingly original tale about the prodigal, who returns to find—but that would be telling.

Arthur B. Reeve introduces "The Love Meter," a heart sleuth, in the next chronicle of "Craig Kennedy."

There are poems by Edgar Lee Masters and Ella Wheeler Wilcox; an essay from Gerald Stanley Lee; an article by Herbert Kaufman, the first of a series on a matter which closely concerns us all, perhaps more than we realize; a chapter in the life of Charles Frohman, shining with stars that you have personally seen and loved; another stirring chapter of Owen Johnson's gripping novel.

Robert W. Chambers

in this same number begins an amazing romance—

WOMEN RAISE HUGHES HOPES IN FAR WEST

By International News Service.

Tacoma, Wash., Aug. 15.—Charles E. Hughes is today rounding up his tour of Washington. Delighted and invigorated at the reception given at the women's demonstration at Spokane yesterday, the Republican presidential nominee this morning declared that he was perfectly content to leave the judgment on his candidacy to the electorate which out here, he said, composed equally of men and women, has demonstrated its belief that the democratic administration has fallen far short of the nation's needs.

The nominee arrived here after an all-night ride from Spokane. After addressing a meeting this afternoon he will leave for Seattle, leaving late at night for Portland, where he will spend tomorrow, and then move on to California.

Public Business Deals Are the Business of the Public

SENATOR STONE arose in the Senate the other day to agitate himself and vent his emotions over the fact that the AMERICAN had printed an outline of the treaty for the purchase of the Danish West Indies.

The Senator from Missouri did not condescend to vulgar specifications, but he managed to create the impression that the AMERICAN had done a very wicked and unpatriotic thing and imperilled not only the treaty but the whole fabric of Government, to say nothing of disturbing the slumbers of the Goddess of Liberty and setting fire to the Palladium of Freedom and the Ark of the Constitution.

Old Bill Stephens, himself a Missouri politician of the wears-his-heart-on-his-sleeve type, once said that the difference between himself and Stone was that while both of them sucked eggs, Stone hid the shells. And in Missouri they still use the name "Gumshoe Bill" when speaking of the chairman of the Senate Committee on Foreign Relations. All of which goes to show that Senator Stone is by nature and education rather overmuch inclined to secrecy and furtiveness.

With such a disposition, it is natural that Senator Stone should attach great importance to the secrecy of Senate executive sessions.

For the benefit of the Senator and the information of other folks, the AMERICAN hastens to assure the gentleman from Missouri that Senate executive sessions are a ridiculous survival of old-fogy days and have no place in modern American legislative affairs.

The American people are intelligent enough to understand proposed treaties; they have the right to know every detail of every proposed treaty; they OUGHT to know the details of every proposed treaty; and whenever it is in the power of this newspaper to obtain and to give to the people that kind of information it means to do it, both as a natural American right and as a public service to the nation.

We would like to know what superiority of brain or judgment Senator Stone and his colleagues possess over their fellow citizens that they must retire behind locked doors to discuss and to decide upon an international real estate deal involving the expenditure of $25,000,000 of public money—and keep the American people in the dark as to the details of the transaction until it has been completed and the deed signed, sealed and delivered.

Are all the rest of us children, that we should thus be treated by Their Superior Wisdoms, the Senators from Missouri and Elsewhere?

How You Can Keep Your Children Fairly Safe

REMEMBER that the surest defence against infection of any kind is to keep the body clean inside and outside.

Look after your children's diet with the utmost care. See that their bodies and their clothing are just as clean as they can be.

See to it that the drainage sewers of their bodies are kept open and thoroughly flushed. The more water they drink the better for them.

Expose them to the sunshine as much as possible. Keep them out of doors as long as you can.

There are no better doctors than Doctor Sunshine and Doctor Freshair.

Wash the children's nostrils out frequently with a solution of boracic acid.

Encourage them to play hard, perspire freely, eat well and sleep well.

The strong, healthy, clean body will often withstand the attacks of malignant bacilli which would kill the feeble, ill-nourished and dirty body.

Once-Overs

There are many kinds of charity, but one of the finest is within the power of your own voice.

It is shown in the way you speak of others.

Be not too anxious to condemn.

Try to assist.

Instead of telling people of their failings, think of something that they do well and talk about that, and if you know that they might do some other things in a better manner, be tactful in suggesting a remedy.

You really owe it to those who have started on the wrong road to do what you can to help them get right again.

Your influence may not be great, but the mere fact that you have demonstrated your interest by speaking well of the person to others and adding a personal good word or cheering remark may be just the help that some discouraged one needs.

Show confidence. Be in earnest about it. The wavering one will not disappoint you.

That tons of confidence may be a tower of strength where you least expect it.

Make it a practice; then whether you know or not, you will not fail to have spoken the right word and in season.

OH, MR. WILLIE, MY FATHER IS VISITING ME. WON'T YOU CALL THIS AFTERNOON? FATHER IS SO FOND OF TALKING ABOUT WHEN HE WAS IN THE CIVIL WAR.
WHY, CERTAINLY, MRS. JONES
HERE'S A FINE CHANCE TO SIDE TRACK THE SHERIFF!
GLAD TO MEET YOU. I HEAR YOU WERE IN THE CIVIL WAR. IF THE SHERIFF CALLS YOU MUST TALK WITH HIM ABOUT IT. HE'S CRAZY ABOUT THE WAR.
MR. WILLIE, MY FATHER
SIT RIGHT DOWN HERE AND I'LL TALK TO YOU ABOUT THE BATTLE OF GETTYSBURG
SHERIFF, THIS IS MY FATHER.
OUR COMPANY WAS DRAWN UP ON THE BROW O' THE HILL. THE CAPTAIN SAYS "BOYS GIT READY."
OH, MR. WILLIE, YOU'RE SUCH A JOLLIER!
YOUR CHEEKS ARE LIKE ROSES
THIS IS WILLIE'S DOING! I'LL BEAT HIM TO A PULP THE FIRST CHANCE I GET!
THEN HE HOLLERED "CHARGE!" AND WE ALL RUSHED FORRARD LIKE THIS!
OH, HUSH!
YOU AND I OUGHT TO GET MARRIED

More Truth Than Poetry

By James J. Montague

Where Did They Get It?

WHEN William J. Demosthenes unfurled his language to the breeze,
He used a lot of words to a-wat
The hated Opposition.
But as the Greeks were fierce and free, and used their spears as repartee,
When William spoke he velled each soak
With baffling erudition.

WHENEVER he began to pan a grafting Grecian gentleman,
So deft his use of keen abuse
And cutting commentary,
That no one knew what deadly work was done by his linguistic dirk,
Till learned Greeks had conned for weeks
The High School dictionary.

BUT in the modern Greek campaigns, the New York Evening Post complains,
The speakers jump upon the stump
And call the guys they're after
Such names as lunatic and bug, wife beater, burglar, scoundrel, thug,
The vulgar Greek for crook and sneak,
And liar, hound and grafter.

ALL cultured people will admit that this raw form of campaign wit
The Greeks employ with such fierce joy
Leaves much to be desired.
We don't know where they got this rough and unDemosthenes-like stuff,
And yet folks say, down Athens way,
T. R. is much admired.

Are Children of Native Borns Weaker?

By Woods Hutchinson, M. D.

The World's Best Known Writer on Medical Subjects

PART ONE

ACCORDING to the report of the registrar of the Health Department of New York city, the death rate among children born in New York city of native American parents is higher than that of children of foreign-born parents. The preponderance is not great, only about 10 per cent, but it is in the wrong direction, and disturbing, both to our proper pride and also because, on an average, the financial conditions and surroundings of native-born families are superior to those of foreign-born ones.

It fans into a flame of uneasiness at once our smoldering apprehension and half conviction, in spite of ourselves, that the race is actually declining and losing its stamina under civilization.

A similarly unflattering comparison was made some years ago between native and foreign born in the report of the Russell Sage Foundation upon retardedness in the public schools. Namely, that the percentage of retardation among native-born children was distinctly higher than in foreign born.

But there are several considerations to be reckoned with before we succumb to the luxury of pessimism and the doleful conclusion that the human race is going to the bowwows under civilized conditions. One of these is the broadly, but quite important, fact that, on account of their simpler and more primitive habits, a much larger percentage of foreign-born women nurse their own babies than of native-born American mothers.

And when we recall that the mortality during the first year of life is anywhere from three to five times as great among bottle-fed babies as among breast-fed, it can be easily seen that this single difference would go far to explain the higher death rate of American children.

So important is this following out of nature's method in the feeding of children that seasons of scarcity and distress, such as famines and sieges, notably, for instance, the Siege of Paris, in 1870, have actually been accompanied by a lower infant mortality instead of a higher one, on account of so many nerve mothers being driven, either by poverty or by difficulty in securing cow's milk, to return to nature's method.

Another consideration of a local character, which must be borne in mind, is, that of all foreign-born parents in New York city, nearly one-half are Jews; and one of the most striking and constant characteristics of the Jewish race, or religion, as they prefer to regard it, is its remarkably low death rate, not only in infancy, but in all stages and ages of life.

But probably the most potent factor in producing this uncomplimentary difference is one suggested by Dr. Guilfoy himself; and that is, that we are in the habit of taking ourselves too much for granted, when it comes to intelligence and sanitary care in the management of our children.

The poor, benighted foreigner, especially if he has not the blessing of a knowledge of the English language, we are quite sure would be liable to do all sorts of stupid, thoughtless and insanitary things in the way of feeding and clothing and caring for his children; while we ourselves, born in the "home of the free and the land of the brave," are, from that very fact, models of farsightedness and hygienic practice.

Great Mysteries of Nature and Science

The Cause of the Draft Up a Chimney—Air Pressure Due to Gravitation—Weight of Entire Atmosphere 5,500 Trillion Tons

By Garrett P. Serviss

"WHAT causes draft up a chimney? If atmospheric pressure is equal (about fifteen pounds to the square inch) at top and bottom of chimney, how can draft occur? How is this atmospheric pressure obtained if we live on the outside of the earth?—H. F. R."

It is the pressure that causes the draft. The air being heated at the bottom of the chimney expands, and thus becomes lighter, bulk for bulk, than the air around and above it. The heated air resembles a cork held under water, which is forced to rise by the pressure of the surrounding liquid, which is heavier, bulk for bulk, than the corks.

If you should put into a bowl a quantity of round beans, and on top of the beans a quantity of large lead shot of equal size, and then shake the bowl you would find, after a time, that the shot were at the bottom and the beans on top. The explanation is that the pressure of the heavier shot, tending toward the bottom, forces the lighter beans upward.

In like manner the particles of water, being heavier than those of cork, force the latter upward, but more rapidly and uninterruptedly, because the water particles are incomparably more free in their movements than the shot. In fact, the freedom of movement is so great among the particles of water that heated water acts almost exactly like the air in a chimney when a fire is started below.

The heated water expands and becomes lighter, while that on the cooler and heavier water presses upon it from all sides, thus causing it to stream upward.

You may ask why the heated air does not flow out at the bottom of the chimney if it is pressure that makes it move. The reply is that the pressure is exerted from all sides, at bottom as well as at top. In fact, there is a slight superiority of pressure at the bottom, depending for its amount upon the height of the chimney. Fifteen pounds to the square inch is the mean or average pressure of the atmosphere at the earth's surface, but in proportion as we ascend the pressure gradually decreases.

Your final question is apparently based upon the idea that the atmosphere must be confined inside of something in order to be subjected to pressure. This would correspond with the notion that has sometimes been advocated that we are not living on the exterior of a globe, as we think, but on the inner surface of a vast spherical shell! But there is no difficulty in comprehending the pressure of the atmosphere, even though the air lies on the surface of a globe, with open, unimpeded space all around it.

The atmospheric pressure is due to the same force which gives weight to solid bodies, viz., gravitation, or the attraction of the earth, which always acts in the direction of the earth's centre.

The atmosphere consists of a certain quantity of oxygen, nitrogen and a few other invisible gases, mixed together in nearly fixed proportions. Every particle of these atmospheric gases is drawn toward the earth's centre, and consequently has weight.

The weight of a single particle is almost infinitesimally small, but the combined weight of all the air particles composing the atmosphere is about one-millionth of the weight of the entire earth, or say 5,500 trillion tons. To ascertain this it is necessary to multiply the number of square inches in the earth's surface by fifteen.

It thus forms a kind of gaseous ocean enveloping the globe, and if it were compressed to the density of water this atmospheric ocean would have a depth of about thirty-four feet. But, unlike the ocean of water, the atmosphere has no absolutely definite and sharply defined surface. This arises from the difference in the constitution of liquids and gases.

The ultimate height of the atmosphere is not experimentally known, but at a height of 200 miles there is still enough air to inflame meteors rushing into it. Yet at that height it is incomparably rarer than the gaseous remnant left in the most perfect vacuum that we can produce.

Outside the atmosphere we suppose that no medium exists except the so-called luminiferous ether, which conveys the waves of light and other forms of radiant energy. But we can no more understand the real nature of ether than we can that of gravitation.

The supposition of the existence of an ether is essential to the explanations and speculations of science, but, in itself, it is a mystery to us. Apparently the ether offers no resistance which can detect and measure, for if it did the atmosphere could not quietly revolve, as it does, with the earth and continually and undisturbedly accompany the earth in its revolution around the sun and in its flight with the sun through interstellar space.

A Toast to Loss

By William F. Kirk

A TOAST to Loss! To Loss the friend!
A toast to drink with right good will,
For when fat Gain withdraws his train,
Loss smiles and lingers with us still.
Old Gain! He gave me from his store,
With grudging hand he gave me gold,
But Loss came stalking through the door
And stripped me like a burglar bold

Loss came and took my all away,
Casting my wish aside as naught;
He took it though I tried to pray—
He took it when I cursed and fought.
Loss came and took my shining store,
Sneering and smiling, cruel and cold,
And crouching in the darkened door,
He heard me pleading for my gold.

A toast to Loss! To Loss the thief!
For when your life is at its flood,
He shields your soul from fat relief
And stirs anew your creeping blood.
Ah, well it were if one great truth
Could shine for boyish eyes to read—
That Loss is oft the friend of youth,
And fat old Gain a foe indeed!

Do Mothers Kill Their Babies?

Science now believes that love kills more babies than does disease. Remarkable new discoveries, in next SUNDAY'S BOSTON AMERICAN.
